2 to 1 Senate Vote for War Aid Seen

OPPONENTS SEE FEWER THAN 31 ON THEIR SIDE

Vote on $7,000,000,000 Bill Expected Monday or Tuesday of Next Week.

WHEELER MAKES REPLY

New Talk Heard of Convoying Supplies To Britain; Comment Declined.

(By United Press)

WASHINGTON — Senate opponents of President Roosevelt's British-aid program admitted privately today that fewer than 31 senators would vote against the $7,000,000,000 appropriation bill for putting the lend-lease program into full effect.

The final senate vote on the bill authorizing all-out aid to the democracies was 60 to 31, but opposition leaders said several members of their group, now that the program has been enacted, would vote for funds to finance it.

Senate leaders speeded the huge money bill toward final action, expected Monday or Tuesday, amidst new talk here of American naval convoys and a charge by Sen. Burton K. Wheeler (D., Mont.) that "all-out" aid for the democracies means "all-in war for the United States" and "chains and tears for the minorities in our own land."

The senate appropriations subcommittee, headed by Sen. Alva B. Adams, D., Colo., expects to approve the appropriation late today and place it before the full committee tomorrow.

The house headed toward what probably will be the second largest spending week in its history. The appropriations committee gives a $4,000,000,000 suplemental army-navy appropriation bill routine approval this morning and sends it to the house floor for debate.

Only two days ago it approved the $7,000,000,000 lend-lease appropriation. Approval of the deficiency bill today or tomorrow would bring the week's spending total to $11,000,000,000. The previous high for a single week was Akron Officers Removed From Force After Blackjacking.

AKRON —(INS)— Two Akron policemen were under suspension today, pending the outcome of investigation by Coroner R. E. Amos of the death of Walter Lamb, jr., 22, who died after an alleged blackjacking at their hands.

Suspended were Richard M. Coburn and J. M. Yingling. The officers admitted they struck young Lamb in city jail, but claimed they first were "attacked" by the youth.

At the coroner's inquest yesterday Coburn and Yingling repeated their testimony that the prisoner was "intoxicated and abusive, and threatened to beat up every man on the force."

LEXINGTON GETS QUICK ACTION

Governor Promises Village Traffic Jams Due to Ice Won't Happen Again.

LEXINGTON — The battle of Lexington road is ended and resident of this Richland county village are happy again.

They have the promise of Gov. John W. Bricker and Highway Director Hal G. Sours that there will be no reoccurrence of the situation on U. S. Route 42 Sunday night when an estimated 1,000 motorists became stranded because of ice on the highway.

That promise was given to F. P. Barr, Lexington businessman who went to Columbus yesterday in behalf of townsfolk here to talk the situation over with state officials.

Barr said he presented the governor with a copy of The Mansfield News-Journal's Wednesday edition carrying the story concerning the happening Sunday night.

By the time Barr arrived back home highway officials had distributed piles of cinders on the hills between Mansfield and the Morrow county line, four miles south of here.

"That was fast action," Barr

Labor Disputes Settled as New Board Schedules Meeting

(By Associated Press)

The first meeting of the new national defense mediation board was set today for next Tuesday. Meanwhile independent efforts to adjust differences between labor and management in several industries were proving successful.

New York CIO bus drivers agreed to end their 11-day walkout and go back to work Saturday while a disputed wage issue is arbitrated.

An 8-day strike at the General Instrument Corporation plant, Elizabeth, N. J., was settled last night when AFL electrical workers obtained increased wages.

The AFL Painters, Decorators and Paperhangers Brotherhood and the painting and decorating contractors of America signed a nationwide labor agreement which prohibits strikes and lockouts on defense jobs. The union has 125,000 members.

At Detroit James F. Dewey, federal labor conciliator, announced that prospects for an amicable adjustment of the dispute between the United Automobile Workers' Union (CIO) and the Ford Motor company had been greatly improved by recent mediation conferences.

Dewey said steps taken by the company and the National Labor Relations board had relieved tension between the union and company since a union declaration of "intent to strike" at the Rouge and Lincoln plants, and that the company had re-employed "most" of 1,000 Rouge plant employes which the UAW-CIO contended were dismissed for union activity during the past seven months. He also said Harry H. Bennett, Ford personnel director, had agreed "to work out any problem with me that warrants my attention, such as reinstatement of men whose work has been satisfactory."

Henry Ford said, however, less than two weeks ago that he believes unions are "losing ground" and that he had no intention of recognizing them as bargaining agencies for Ford Motor Company employes.

A representative of the office of production management was

LINDY PROTESTS

Flying Colonel Says U. S. Arms Too Late, Predicts Defeat.

NEW YORK — (UP) — Charles A. Lindbergh said today that the United States is re-arming "too late" for a war which, if we enter it now, can end only "in defeat and humiliation."

He called on opponents of war to flood congress with demands for peace, demands for a statement of "our war aims," and demands for "our plans of defense and attack" in terms of 'soldiers killed and years of war."

In "a letter to Americans," he asserted that France and Great Britain by their failures in time of peace "brought the curse of war on Europe" and "defeat to France and devastation to England."

WILL RESIGN

Martin Will Offer To Quit GOP Chairmanship.

INDIANAPOLIS — (AP) — Rep. Joseph W. Martin, jr., (R.-Mass. said today on his arrival for a two-day Republican leaders' conference he would resign as GOP national chairman "then it will be up to the committee to act."

Rep. Martin came by train from Washington for the parley which is expected to bring together state chairmen and other leaders from 39 states, mostly mid-western.

National committee members meet Monday in Washington, and informed Indiana sources said they probably would turn down Rep. Martin's resignation.

MORE DRAFTEES GIVEN EXAMS

Richland Selective Service Boards Act to Fill Quota For April.

Thirty-nine young Richland countians were called to the Mansfield Armory for physical examinations today as the county's three draft boards continued their selection of men to fill the April draft quotas.

Meanwhile, it was reported at state selective service headquarters in Columbus that the predicted 25 per cent reduction in Ohio's draft quota between now and July 1 may not materialize.

A spokesman at headquarters said the reduction is more likely to be around 17 per cent, which would make the state's quota 43,575 men. A 25 per cent cut would have reduced the quota to 39,375 men. The state has already sent 30,960 selectees to camps.

Regardless of the size of the reduction, Richland county is expected to be asked to send between 350 and 400 more men to the army by July 1, which would mean that the county has not supplied half of its quota for the period ending July 1.

The county's three boards had virtually completed their selections today of men scheduled to leave next Thursday. Board 1 will send 18 in the final group for March, while the Board 2 quota is 14, and Board 3 will contribute 16 to the county's quota of 48 men.

Board 1, which has been required to provide the most men, will have to go down its list of registrants past order No. 900 to get enough qualified men for the group to leave next week.

Signal Fires Mark Search for Lost Mother and Child

MONTROSE, Colo.—(AP)—Scattered signal fires glowed under the storm-blackened sky over wild and lonely Horsefly Basin early today as weary rangemen plodded into the deep-drifted wilderness in search of a young mother and child.

Mrs. Laura Boyd, 22, and her six-year-old daughter set out from their ranch home last Saturday presumably for Montrose, 33 miles distant.

Their trail in the crusted snow—marked by Mrs. Boyd's discarded handbag, her woolen stockings, and the child's tiny leggings — was discovered by Rancher Burl Herman.

Among the searchers retracing Herman's trail last night, lighting signal fires for the lost pair along the way, was Otis Boyd. Boyd declared he believed intense loneliness caused his wife and child to leave their cabin.

Ashland Priest Indicted By Grand Jury, Taken to Hospital

ASHLAND — Rev. William E. Rooney was in Massillon state hospital today while under indictment in Ashland county common pleas court that he "did unlawfully torment or cruelly and unlawfully punish" a 16-year-old girl by whipping her while gagged and tied to a post in the nude.

Rev. Rooney was removed to Massillon yesterday on an order from Probate Judge S. H. Boffenmyer despite instructions by Common Pleas Judge H. E. Culbertson to the grand jury earlier that the probate court had no jurisdiction in the case.

Clarence Rooney, brother of the priest, who was given custody of him by Judge Boffenmyer after four psychiatrists had declared him "mentally ill" at a public hearing Wednesday, conveyed him to Massillon after Attorney Robert Lett was informed the grand jury did not wish to examine Rev. Rooney.

The priest is charged with whipping Virginia Barrett, his ward, in the church basement at 4:30 a. m. on March 7. He declared her charges were "unbelievable."

The indictment had not been served today and no date had been set for Rev. Rooney's arrangement in common pleas court.

Lett today stated that the probate court did have legal jurisdiction in the case and that "if there is no mental responsibility, there can be no crime."

He appeared yesterday before Judge H. E. Culbertson and Prosecutor A. Ross Siverling after the grand jury had been charged and had left the room. Lett requested that Rev. Rooney be allowed to appear before the grand jury for examination. Judge Culbertson did not allow the request.

9 ENTER PLEAS, JUDGE SENDS TWO TO PRISON

Mansfielder Sentenced To Ohio Pen For Five-Year-Old Burglary.

Reformatory Fugitives Still In Jail, Disposition of Cases Undecided.

Two of nine men who pleaded guilty today to grand jury indictments before Judge C. H. Huston in common pleas court were sentenced to the Ohio penitentiary. Cases of the other seven were continued.

Three Mansfield reformatory fugitives who, it was understood, were indicted by the grand jury, were still in the county jail today although Sheriff Frank Robinson said they had not been served with indictments.

Court attaches said it had not been determined whether the trio would be returned to the reformatory or taken before Judge Huston. The men, Elwood Deckerdorf and James Layton, both of Columbiana county, and Ronald Long, Hamilton county, escaped a week ago after locking a guard in a refrigerator. They were captured in West Virginia and returned here Wednesday.

Sentenced to the penitentiary today by Judge Huston were Charles L. Beaver, 42, Mansfield, and Arthur Conn, 24, South Wooster. Beaver's term is for one to 20 years and Conn was sentenced to the pen for one to 25 years.

Beaver pleaded guilty to an indictment charging him with a five-year-old jewelry store burglary in Mansfield in which he admitted obtaining goods valued at about $250. Although the burglary was committed in 1936, Beaver was not arrested until last December when the jewelry was recovered at his home.

Conn admitted assaulting and robbing Charles Cooper, 74, of his watch in an alley off East Fifth street last Feb. 1. Prosecutor Harold Lutz said in court today that Cooper suffered a permanent eye injury as a result of the attack.

SPRING'S HERE

It'll Be Fair Tonight and Tomorrow, Weatherman Says.

Spring, with all her birds and sunshine, was a reality in Mansfield today although temperatures lagged a bit behind schedule. Spring officially arrived at 7:21 p. m. yesterday.

Highest point for the mercury yesterday was 50 degrees. The low was recorded at 22 degrees while the average for the day was 36, just three degrees under the 16-year average. At noon today, the temperature was already up to 32 degrees.

Fair tonight and tomorrow was the forecast of the weatherman with slightly colder weather due tonight. Possible cloudiness and a warm spring rain are also expected for tonight or early tomorrow.

RELEASED TO NEW JOB

CLEVELAND—(INS)—George A. Bowman, superintendent of schools in suburban Lakewood, today was free to accept a similar position in Youngstown, following action taken by the Lakewood school board in which it was voted unanimously to release Bowman from his contract.

Richland Tax Receipts Hit $593,776 on Deadline Day

With $37,982 pouring into the county treasury yesterday, final day of the real estate tax collection period, total receipts today amounted to $593,776, slightly under collections at the close of the first-half collection period last year.

Treasurer John E. Kolb predicted that mail returns yet to be counted and money collected in outlying districts of the county by special collectors would bring total receipts close to last year's figure of $675,000.

The treasurer, added, however, that he did not believe receipts for the first half of this year will equal last year's mark, best in the past decade.

He attributed the drop in receipts to a decline in tax rates in a number of districts in the county rather than changing economic conditions

Kolb said there would be no extension of time for paying real estate levies, with delinquent payments drawing a 10 per cent penalty.

Personal tax returns continued to come in today, receipts so far amounting to $37,349. The personal levy collection period will not end until April 1.

Three Members Resign From Crown Council

British King, Queen Narrowly Escape Violent Air Raid on Plymouth; RAF Bombers Lash Sub Base In Occupied France.

(By Associated Press)

Yugoslavia's crown council decision to join the Rome-Berlin-Tokyo alliance gave Adolf Hitler the green light today for his expected invasion of Greece, but at the same time precipitated a government crisis in which three Yugoslav cabinet ministers angrily proffered their resignations.

Belgrade dispatches said the three ministers predicted serious internal strife would develop in Yugoslavia.

Regent Prince Paul, acting for the boy King Peter, subsequently refused to accept any cabinet resignations, declaring no one would be allowed to quit until the agreement is signed.

German quarters declared the signature date was set for Sunday, with Yugoslavia's Premier Dragisa Cvetkovic and Foreign Minister Alksander Cincar-Markovic slated to leave tonight or tomorrow for Vienna.

Serb feeling against the government's decision was described as mounting feverishly. Pictures of President Roosevelt and British Prime Minister Winston Churchill were displayed publicly in many towns.

BOMBERS RAKE BRITISH PORT

Plymouth Residents Wander Over Blasted Streets Seeking Shelter After Raid.

(By United Press)

PLYMOUTH, England — Hundreds of people, many of them wearing blood-stained bandages and with torn clothing, wandered over streets littered with broken bricks, mortar, wood and glass seeking shelter today after a long, savage German air raid on this historic city.

They carried their entire remaining possessions and household goods with them, passing scores of rescue squads who were still digging in wreckage for bodies or for buried survivors.

Entire rows of homes lay in ruins. Neighbors and relatives did all they could to care for the refugees and remaining homes in the worst hit areas were crowded.

It was estimated that about 10,000 incendiary bombs were dropped. Explosive bombs dropped, at times, at the rate of 12 a minute—720 an hour. Many fires were started but they were put under control within a few hours due to aid of civilians and the heroic work of the fire spotting and fire fighting services.

Three churches, three department stores, two hotels were among the many buildings wrecked by fire or explosion. Many shops were in crumbling ruins.

The Germans had used the same tactics as in previous attacks during the last few days on their spring starvation offensive aimed at ports through which flow the supplies on which Britain depends

The break was made shortly after midnight, according to workhouse guards, who discovered the men missing during a routine check-up.

CHAPTER V

Joan and Sybil spent a quiet Sunday. Karl had told Joan that he would not be able to see her over the week-end and she found that even one day without him was enough to make her unhappy. It was a gloomy day. The rainy weather of the night before continued and Joan moped restlessly about the apartment.

But Sybil seemed cheerful at the prospect of starting her new job at the Ritz Beauty Shop. "What's the matter with you?" she asked as Joan sat staring into space. "We've both got a job. There's nothing to worry about."

Joan suspected that Sybil knew what was worrying her but she disliked bringing up the subject of Karl Miller. Her love for him was a secret she guarded jealously. Instead she told Sybil about Paul Sherman and his proposal that she have dinner with him.

Sybil lay on the couch filing her fingernails. Her blond hair was in curlers in preparation for her new position. "He sounds all right," she commented. "Why don't you go?"

"I don't even know the man," Joan protested. "I met him only last night."

Sybil raised an eyebrow as she contemplated her sister. "You didn't know Karl Miller either, but you fell in love with him overnight. Or maybe I should say you think you're in love with him."

Joan curled up in the big chair and opened a magazine which she pretended to read, but Sybil saw through the subterfuge.

"Look, honey, why not confess? I know how you feel."

Joaon lifted a confused, radiant face. "Oh, Syb, you're right! I do love him. I'm so in love with him that it frightens me because I can't believe that he really cares about me. I'm so young and unsophisticated."

"And you're going to stay that way," Sybil said sharply. "You don't love Karl Miller, Joan! You want him because you know he's out of your reach."

"Oh, it's more than that" The youthful voice was full of pain.

"Even so, it can't hurt anything for you to be nice to this other man. He's young and apparently he likes you. Why don't you have dinner with him?"

"I don't want Karl to be angry with me," Joan confessed.

"Is it as bad as that?" Sybil asked quietly.

Joan sighed, "I'm sorry, Syb! But that's the way it is. I can't help it."

Sybil was silent and in the twilight they could hear the rain splashing steadily against the windowpanes. The tick of the old grandfather's clock seemed strangely loud; even the sound of Sybil striking a match grated on Joan's nerves. When the telephone pealed through the room, she flew to answer it. Karl!! Perhaps it would be Karl!

It was. And at the sound of his voice her heart sang.

"I find that I am going to be free this evening," came his carefully modulated voice. "Would you like to have dinner with me?"

Would she like to? "Oh, darling!" her heart cried. But she answered demurely. "I'd love to. What time?"

Joan ran into the bedroom to change her dress but Sybil had not missed the unconcealed joy in her face. Sybil's blue eyes were full of worry as she stared thoughtfully after her sister.

Joan was disappointed to find that Karl had invited another dinner guest. Eric Strom, whom Paul had described as Karl's partner, met them at the hotel. Sitting in front of the broad windows which overlooked the sea, Joan's spirits drooped.

Eric Strom, asked, "Do you find the rain so depressing, Miss Leland?"

"It does seem gloomy," Joan admitted.

Karl smiled at her indulgently but the two men continued to talk about business. Joan did not like Eric. For the same inexplicable reason that she trusted Paul, she did not trust Karl's partner.

"My intuition's working overtime," Joan reflected, glancing at Eric.

He was a slight man, blond, about Karl's age. But he had none of Karl's magnetic power. There was something shifty about his pale eyes. His manner was cautious, unpleasantly so. He looked a great deal at Joan and his glance made her uncomfortable. If Karl noticed this, he gave no sign. He was cheerful during the meal, which seemed endless to his secretary. The two men, engrossed in their own conversation, left Joan free to speculate. Eric was another unanswered question in the train of events which seemed to involve her since Mr. Mulford had dismissed her so summarily. If he was Karl's partner, why had she not seen him before? Only once to her knowledge had he been in Karl's office. For that matter, Paul Sherman certainly had not been around much either. Everyone behaved so peculiarly at the Club Elite—as if there were some mystery behind it. Karl was the only person who seemed entirely calm and capable. Working at a night club was vastly different from working at Mr. Mulford's importing shop where nothing ever happened from one monotonous month to the next.

Joan looked at Karl, whose eyes were as spinxlike as the vast ocean that rolled outside the broad windows. A little thrill swept over her that this man was here. But was he? For one small moment the day before she had been in his arms, but during the rest of the brief time she had known him he seemed a tousand miles away. Sybil had said that Joan did not love him; that it was merely fascination. But it must be love that brought such heartache in its wake. At his slightest smile, her spirits zoomed. If he ignored her, she was desolate. When she could not see him, life seemed futile. When she was with him, the ordinary troubles of everyday life lost all importance. If this was not love, what was it?

Joan's reverie was broken by the headwaiter who was speaking to Karl. "You're wanted on the telephone, Mr. Miller."

When he had gone, Eric Strom smiled at her and leaned across the table.

"You are very beautiful, Miss Leland. But I suppose Karl has told you that." His accent was much heavier than Karl's, and Joan found it difficult to understand. "A woman with green eyes is very rare. Did you know that?"

Joan forced a smile to her lips. "I don't believe we've met before, have we?"

He shrugged. "I am Karl's silent partner. He doesn't need me to run the club. Others can do that. By the way, Miss Leland, I would like to see you again sometime. Just the two of us."

Her piquant face was white beneath the sophisticated veil, she was afraid of this man. "I'm afraid it is impossible," she replied sharply.

But Eric Strom was not displeased. "Have a cigaret, Miss Leland? You may find that sometime we have no choice in such matters."

Joan stared at him uncertainly. What did he mean by that? Did everyone at the Club Elite talk in riddles? First Paul's inexplicable behavior, now Eric Strom's! What would Karl think if he knew that his partner and his manager had both tried to make a date with his secretary? Paul was young. Perhaps high spirits had prompted his impudence. But Eric Strom was another matter, and Joan decided to tell Karl about it at the moment they were alone.

She had no chance, however, for when Karl returned to the table he said briefly, "Something has come up. We'll have to go back to the office.

The two men exchanged glances, then looked at Joan. "Do you mind?" Karl inquired with his quick smile. "I'd like to get a couple of letters out tonight. I know it isn't in the bargain for you to work on Sunday."

She knew that she was powerless to refuse him. She would gladly have typed a dozen letters in order to be near him.

Karl paid the check and the three of them left. As they drove back to North Beach, sheets of rain beat upon the car. The Club Elite was closed on Sundays and Karl unlocked the door with his own key. Joan was surprised to see a streak of light streaming from the door of his private office.

Hurrying along the corridor, she reached it first and found herself face to face with Paul Sherman.

He grinned at her. "A manager never really has a day off."

Karl seemed to find nothing strange in his presence at the club.

"You don't happen to have some extra time, do you, Miss Leland?" Paul inquired. "I could use some help."

Before she could answer, Karl Miller said quickly, "She has enough to do, Paul, and now if you don't mind . . ." He left his sentence unfinished.

"Surely." Paul grinned and sauntered to the door. "See you tomorrow," he called back but his eyes were on Joan and she knew that he was thinking of the dinner date he had proposed.

She shook her head as she looked at him over her typewriter but Paul ignored it.

Karl removed his overcoat and sat down at his desk. Eric Strom mixed himself a drink.

"Take a letter," Karl said, reading from a sheet of yellow paper, "to A. H. Gomez, Mazatlan, Mexico . . . Dear Sir: I am happy to report that the situation you mentioned has been cleared up satisfactorily. The club will be open from eight to two and shows every sign of being successful."

Joan looked at him curiously. This did not sound like an important business letter to her. Certainly not so important that it couldn't wait until morning.

Seeing her glance, Karl said, "I'm afraid you're too tired. I shouldn't have asked you to work tonight."

"It's all right," she hastened to assure him, "I don't mind, really."

But Karl Miller had changed his mind. "I will call a taxi and send you home."

"But I'm not tired, Karl!"

He was dialing a number and Joan knew it was useless to argue with him. He went to the door of the club with her, pressing her hand as he said, "I'm sorry it had to turn out this way tonight. We'll arrange something else soon."

Joan shivered in the damp night air as she waited for the taxi. A small coupe stopped suddenly before her with screaming brakes. Involuntarily Joan stepped back, surprised to see Paul Sherman.

"What are you doing here alone?" he asked.

"Waiting for a taxi," Joan replied with dignity.

"Well, jump in, my girl!" Paul ordered cheerfully.

Joan laughed in spite of herself. "Karl has already ordered a taxi. It should be here any minute."

"Forget it," he suggested, "and come with me."

"I'm afraid Karl won't like it."

His brown eyes regarded her seriously. "That matters a great deal to you, doesn't it?"

Joan did not reply. She felt cross and irritable and she was cold.

Paul got out and opened the door of the car. "You may as well let me drive you home. You can't stand here in the rain, you know."

It did seem silly, Joan admitted, climbing in, but as Paul started the car she cried, "I left my purse in the office."

"I'll get it for you," Paul offered.

Red Birds, Ashland Defeated In State Cage Tourney

Sport Podge by REX HESS

The little fellow is only three days old but he's still hitting a clipping a day clip. I mean that young son of the Coach Paul Snyder's.

That shouldn't be too much of a record for a rising young fullback, and though it may irk those readers who don't happen to know the Snyders, this is a story that must be told.

On his first day in this vale of this and that, the youngster sponsored an athletic contest at the high school gym that has never been duplicated.

Coach Snyder realized, even in his dazed condition, that the cigars he had been passing out to his friends were hardly the thing for his football squad, so he sent 25 ice cream bars to the gridders for their morning gym session.

But the gridders had been around long enough not to expect their mentor present on the day of such a momentous event, and only five showed up for the class.

And I have it on the word of one of the contestants, that those five gridders ate every one of those 25 ice cream bars.

Fremont Green Sox of the Ohio State league can now start looking in earnest for a new manager.

They had been hoping that Chappie Geygan, the old Boston Red Sox, would return to the game as pilot of the Green Hose, but Chappie now has a business of his own and he's just given the final word that business and pleasure won't mix.

This is the first full day of spring, but I haven't a thing to say about spring. I'm a fair-weather fan, and this thing called spring hasn't impressed me by its pre-season training performances.

Spring, you ain't got a thing, if you ain't got that zing.

It'll be no path of roses, that cinder track at Stadium field when the Mansfield Relays sprinters go into action April 19.

It'll be TOBASCO ROAD, on the word of Relays Manager Harry Mehock. So hot those sprinters' hoofs will be.

Feller Battles Control Problem

FORT MYERS, Fla.—(AP)—Bob Feller isn't doing so well these days, but no one in the Cleveland Indians' camp seems to be worried.

"A good deal of his trouble so far has been with his old nemesis—wildness. The St. Louis Cardinals scored two runs on two walks and a pair of hits off Feller to beat the Indians yesterday, 2 to 1. It was Bob's third defeat of the spring, his offerings previously having been pounded by the Brooklyn Dodgers and Philadelphia Phillies.

Clint Brown and Mike Naymick were the other Cleveland pitchers, the former allowing two hits in three innings and Naymick one in two. The Cards got to Feller for four hits in his three-inning turn.

The Tribesmen tangle with Louisville today with Cal Dorsett and Joe Heving the pitching nominees.

JIMMY'S HAPPY

HOLLYWOOD —(AP)— The Chicago White Sox lost to the Philadelphia Athletics yesterday, but you would never guess it from the smiling countenance of Manager Jimmy Dykes. The reason for his good cheer was a physician's report that John Rigney, his star pitcher, had a perforated right ear drum which probably would exclude him from the army draft.

City Loop Ends 1941 Schedule

Athletic Supplies Meet Sohioans For Title.

TUESDAY night will ring down the curtain on the Mansfield basketball picture for the 1940-41 season as the City league has its final attraction at the high school gym.

The big game of the night will bring together two of the strongest teams in Mansfield, the Mansfield Athletic Supply and the Blue Roose Sohioans. The Blue Goose team is the 1939-40 champs. They won the first round championship this year, but were eliminated in the second round by the Athletics.

The Supplies will be a dangerous contender as is shown by their second round record when they won five ball games without being defeated. They lost two games out of seven in the first round to make their league record 10 victories against two defeats.

The Sohioans on their record of this year retain the role of favorite, due to their high scoring team which is the highest in the entire league. They boast the league's leading scorer in the old perennial favorite Al Stickler, who has been one of the outstanding athletes in the history of Mansfield. He has retained his league scoring leadership from last year when he also was the scoring champ. The Sohioans record for the league season is nine victories against three defeats.

In their two previous meetings this year, the teams have broken even. The Sohioans won the first game by a score of 24 to 18. The second game was won by the Mansfield Athletic Supplies by the score of 26 to 24. This will be the rubber game of the series with the league championship hinging on the outcome of the basketball game this Tuesday night.

The preliminary game will bring together the B'nai B'rith team, which won the Y. M. C. A. league championship and the Rex Billiards, the Friendly House champions. The Rex Billiards are old favorites with Mansfield basketball followers, while the B'nai B'rith team in its first year in the league walked away with the championship against stern competition. An interesting battle should result with both teams boasting high scoring attacks.

MANSFIELD SHOOTERS DEFEAT BUCYRUS

Mansfield marksmen defeated Bucyrus 1393 to 1362 in a rifle match on the Mansfield range yesterday.

Barr, Mansfield sharpshooter hit a total of 285 for the highest individual score. Corwin and Cosgrove made perfect scores in the prone position for Mansfield. Hutchinson, McBeth, Houseberg, and Hill hit perfect scores in the prone position for Bucyrus.

Corwin	281	McBeth	276

PLAYERS TO MEET

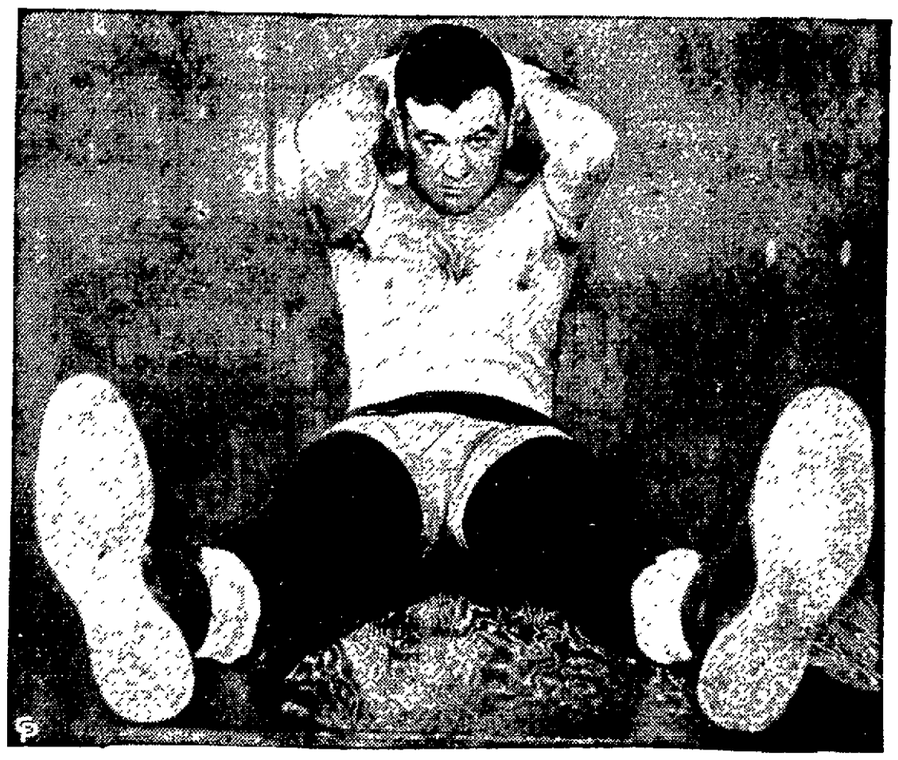
The Athletic Supply ball players are requested to be at the store at 11 o'clock sharp Saturday morning. Game time will be 12:15 with the Birmingham Firemen.

Very Priddy

GERALD PRIDDY

Looks like a double-play ball as Gerald Priddy, new Yank second baseman, blasts one over to first after a nice pickup during practice at St. Petersburg, Fla. Priddy is from Kansas City, you know.

Comeback Bug Hits Old Jim Braddock



JIMMY BRADDOCK WORKS OUT IN NEW YORK

Because "there seems to be nobody around to give Joe Louis a fight," former Heavy Champion Jim Braddock plans an exhibition junket to see if he can really come back.

Baseball Sees Record Season

Signs Point To Large Attendance Boost.

TAMPA, Fla. —(AP)— Baseball men are keeping their fingers crossed—but the signs appear unmistakable that the coming season will be one of the greatest in history from an attendance standpoint.

Crowd records are being broken right and left around the Florida exhibition circuit, and in the last half dozen games this observer has attended, grandstand and bleachers have been packed to where the aisles were obstructed. At some of these games the price of grandstand admission was $1 too.

The champion Cincinnati Reds played to more fans in their first two games here than in the entire six they played a year ago, with over 3,000 watching them engage the Yankees. Cleveland and the Giants played before a record throng of 4,300 in Miami, with many turned away, and on another day rival games in Miami and Miami Beach drew 3,500 and 2,800 respectively.

Old-timers who were attending the training camps at the time recall that there was a similar quickening interest in baseball at the time of the first World war. That probably is a partial explanation of the current rush for the turnstiles, but the baseball men prefer to believe that the fans also are intrigued by other factors—the prospect of a couple of close league races and the introduction of such colorful newcomers as Phil Rizzuto and Gerald Priddy of the Yankees.

For four springs previous to this one the Yanks were the only consistent draw on the exhibition circuit, with Cleveland scoring at the box office only on days when Bobby Feller was scheduled to pitch. This year several other clubs will more than pay their training expenses.

SPORTS GOSSIP

NEW YORK — (The Special News Service)—Jack Johnson's feud with Joe Louis and company is red hot. They give old Jack the heave-ho every time he tries to crash a Louis work-out. . . . Our dope is there'll be no hoss track near Camden, N. J. . . . One man's opinion: Long Island U. to beat Ohio U. in the cage tourney finals. . . . Everybody here going overboard on Bob Davies, Seton Hall star. Nat Holman, City college coach and one of the cage game's all-time greats, says Davies is better than Hank Luisetti. . . . Alberta Little, Kentucky women's champ, is excused from the course on golf at Rollins college because, said the teacher, "She's better than I am."

WE CAN DREAM, CAN'T WE?

If Abe can score an upset win
(And history proves it has been done)
The Greeks can come a-charging in
And put the Germans on the run.

P. S.—
But the only way he'll lose,
Joe said,
Is to break a hand on
Simon's head.

SPORTS COCKTAIL

Judy Canova, who goes to town with those mountain songs, asked Pepper Martin to autograph a baseball. Pepper obliged thusly: "From one hillbilly singer to another." . . . What-a-Guy-Dept.: Ace Parker, who aces in football and baseball, shot a 68 at St. Augustine the other day. . . . Lou Boudreau and Ray Mack pay each other a nickel for every error they make. . . .

GRIEVANCE DEPT.

Al Kircher, assistant coach at Michigan State, is a very burned up young man. . . . Listen to him moan. . . . "I spent five years learning to ride a horse so I could qualify for my commission as a reserve officer in the cavalry. . . . Now, I get my orders and learn I'm to be a jockey for a tank."

Bout's Length Only Question

Simon and Manager See Hope For Challenger.

DETROIT, Mich. —(AP)— "How long wll it last?"

That old, familiar chant was heard today with Joe Louis, carrying on what is described as his "bum of-the-month" campaign, expected to blast the championsip aspirations of ponderus Abie Simn tonight.

The battle, set for 20 rounds or less in Olympic arena, is jokingly or otherwise called the 15th defense Louis is making of his world's heavyweight championship since he won it from James J. Braddock in Comiskey Park, Chicago, back in June, 1937.

The chant started in Boston last December when the Brown Bomber beat Al McCoy so unmercifully he was unable to answer the bell for the sixth round.

As the hour of the bout approached there was no one, with the exception of Simon and his manager Jimmy Johnston, who conceded Ponderous Abe a chance.

Said Manager Johnston: "Abe, himself, told me that he would win, and who am I to call him a liar?"

The consensus was that the 250-pound Simon would not last more than four rounds and might not answer the bell for the second. He will outweigh Louis by 47 pounds, an advantage which may only prolong the agony for the huge, slow-footed Simon. He is the closest approach to Primo Carnera the ring has ever seen, except that he is not rated as good as Carnera, whom Louis knocked out in six rounds in 1935.

Deacon Reveals Secret

'Never Beat Yourself' Says Red Manager.

By GEORGE KIRKSEY

TAMPA, Fla.—(U.P.)—Rule No. 1 in Deeacon Bill McKechnie's book of baseball commandments is: "Never beat yourself."

That's the secret of the success of the World Champion Cincinnati Reds. Twice in succession the Reds have climbed the golden stairs on gilt-edge pitching and air-tight defense. In 1941 the Reds will bid to make it three in a row with the same prescription.

The Reds, as always, are short on power, but they proved in the National League pennant race and the World series last year that great pitching can throttle long-range hitters. The Reds are loaded with pitching.

Mid-March appraisals lead to the belief that the Reds will have a stronger ball club this season than they did in 1940—with only one big "if" tossed into the picture. The big question mark concerns Ernie Lombardi's sprained ankle, which he hurt last September.

For insurance, the Reds rushed into the market and bought 34-year-old Johnny Riddle from the Yank's Kansas City farm. Riddle is a smart receiver but a light hitter. Much repsonsibility will fall upon his shoulders if Lombardi can't catch well over 100 games.

The Reds' pitching and defense is something to write Aunt Hattie about. Picture a "Big Three" of Paul Derringer, Bucky Walters and Gene Thompson, each a potential 20-game winner. No other club can match that trio. Then, in the second line they have Jim Turner, Whitey Moore and Monte Pearson, who just three years ago hurled a no-hit, no-run game for the Yanks, and Joe Beggs, a great relief man who won 12 games and lost only three last season. Batting for the other places on the staff are Johnny Vander Meer of double no-hit, no-run fame; Bob Logan, a left-hander up from Indianapolis where he won 18 games; Witt Guise, another lefty; Big John Hutchings, who is being brought along slowly; and Elmer Riddle, brother of the Reds' new catcher.

The Reds' only other possible question mark is at shortstop. During the winter the Reds traded Billy Myers to the Cubs for Outfielder Jimmy Gleason and Shortstop Bobby Mattick. Eddie Joost, who played 75 games at short last season, is slated to take over Myers' job. Mattick and Pep Young of Pittsburgh will be hanging around "just in case" he falls short of expectations.

Elsewhere in the infield, Frank McCormick will be back at first, Lonnie Frey at second and Bill Werber at third.

* * *

LEAGUE GROWS

ZANESVILLE — (U.P.) (AP)— Applications of Zanesville and Erie, Pa., for membership in the Middle Atlantic baseball league were formally accepted by club owners and directors and a 126-game schedule was adopted at a meeting here yesterday.

NOT SO VALUABLE

ORLANDO, Fla. —(AP)— George Archie, the most valuable player in the Pacific Coast league, came to camp expecting to make the Washington Senators squad but made only three hits in six games and unless some other club claims him, is due to be returned to Seattle. Manager Bucky Harris has decided to split the first basing job between Jim Vernon and Jack Sanford.

By REX HESS, News-Journal Sports Editor.

THE STATE high school bucketball tournament goes on, but for teams of the Mansfield area it's all over already.

Loudonville, Ashland and Attica bowed out in first round assignments yesterday, the Red Birds falling before a high-geared quintet from the Ohio Soldiers and Sailors Orphans' Home at Xenia, 32-43, the A's dropping a 33-38 battle to Springfield Township of the Akron district, and Attica, winners of the Bascom B tourney, being eliminated by Hanover 34-46.

Bolstered with confidence by their overtime final victory over Canton St. John's at Kent, Loudonville took a big crowd to the Class B classic at the Ohio State gym yesterday, a big and disappointed crowd.

The Red Birds were way off in their shooting, and puzzled not a little by the type of officiating they got in their battle with the Xenia Home.

Three players went out on personals, Etzwiler, Darling and Swank, while Zenia was forced to rest its star performers to escape a similar fate. Loudonville missed enough free shots to win the game.

The Birds who were left staged a brilliant last-period comeback and with only six minutes left to play were only six points behind. But back into the game came Xenia's stars, and that ball game was over.

Xenia showed the best passwork of any Class B team performing in the Loudonville bracket, even better than the famed Glenford quintet, and without question was the best conditioned team in the tourney.

The rangy sons of Ohio's soldier dead just about ran the pants off Loudonville's Birds, so well conditioned they were, and many of their points were made on fast breaks after pass interceptions.

Xenia led at the quarter 8-4, at the half 23-10 and at the third period 30-18. Finding the range with uncanny accuracy on long shots, Loudonville spurted to bring the count to 24-30 with six minutes left to go, but Xenia took command again and there was no doubt of the outcome in the waning minutes.

For a time it seemed as though Loudonville might follow the example set by Hicksville and Elmore in preceding games. Trailing all the way, Hicksville tied the score at 33-33, then defeated Spring Valley 38-37 in overtime. And Elmore caught up with Berlin in the closing minutes for a 37-35 victory.

Springfield Township had too much height for Ashland but had to battle for its five-point victory. Pete Risser led the Ashland attack with 12 points, while Harold Fix led Springfield with 11.

In other Class A games Massillon defeated Bryan 44-38, Cincinnati Hughes won from Zanesville 37-24, Lakewood edged Portsmouth 36-35, Canton McKinley staged a last period rally to nose out Middletown 30-28, Martins Ferry staved off a Lima Central rally 33-32, Newark needed a last-half comeback to defeat Youngstown Rayen 44-32, and Xenia Central outpointed Toledo Libbey 47-38.

In the B tournament Cridersville, doped as Glenford's chief opposition, barely edged Fairfield Township 48-46. Midvale outclassed Waterloo 42-37, Canfield won from Marysville 53-46, and Glenford outlasted Smithfield 51-41.

Sharecropper Saga.

Packed with dramatic dynamite and interspersed with plenty of lusty humor, "Tobacco Road," will open Saturday on the Ohio screen. Depicting the tragedy that stems from shiftlessness the story revolves around a group of hard-bitten share-croppers who are about to be evicted from their homes. The play is not lacking from lusty humor however and Director John Ford has retained many of the pungent situations of the original production. "Tobacco Road" achieves perfection in casting as Charley Grapewin plays "Jeeter Lester," and Marjorie Rambeau, the role of 'Sister Bessie." The part of Ellie May is essayed by Gene Tierney while William Tracy plays "Dude Lester." Slim Summerville, Grant Mitchell and Ward Bond are others in the cast.

Camp Life.

Lead-off picture from Hollywood about the funny side of camp life of the selectees in Uncle Sam's fighting forces is "Buck Privates," opening at the Madison Saturday. Bud Abbott and Lou Costello, the serio-comic battlers of radio and stage, the Andrews Sisters, the boogie-woogie girls of rhythm and Nat Pendleton are among the well-known personalities enlivening the film. Exploits of a band of Americans forced to fight off native ruffians in order to protect a fortune in jewels which they have taken from an ancient Egyptian tomb are pictured in "Dark Streets of Cairo," supplementing the bill. Rod LaRocque and Katherine DeMille have the leads.

South Sea Belle.

As a heart-throbbing cafe belle of the South Seas, Marlene Dietrich portrays the kind of a role only she can do so well in "Seven Sinners," showing at the Ritz. Opposite her in the role of a naval officer is John Wayne who does a notable job in the classic fight that climaxes the film. Mischa Auer has a spot in the film as a wandering magician with a failing for picking pockets while Billy Gilbert also injects humor into even the most serious situations. Broderick Crawford, Anna Lee and Oscar Homolka are numbered in the cast. Minna Gombell plays the owner of a freighting line determined to stay in business despite bandits in "Doomed Caravan," the William Boyd co-feature.

Picture Debut.

Amid the familiar settings of the Jot-'Em-Down store which they have made familiar to the imaginations of millions of radio fans, Lum and Abner make their motion picture debut in "Dreaming Out Loud," continuing at the Park. As garrulous old storekeepers of Pine Ridge they help bring a mobile hospital unit to the village and smooth out other complications. Frank Craven plays the town's only physician and others in the cast are Frances Langford, Robert Wilcox, Donald Briggs and Clara Blandick. An old time minstrel show is featured in "Oklahoma Renegades," with "the 3 mesquiteers" Bob Livingston, Raymon Hatton and Duncan Renaldo.

Search For Utopia.

Mansfield High Pupils Guests at Western Reserve

Guests of honor at a luncheon given by publication staffs of Western Reserve university, Cleveland, in honor of high school journalists, two Mansfield Senior high school pupils are shown above with other guests and staff members. In the back row, second from right and far right respectively are William Dietrichson, 93 Glenwood boulevard, and Lynn McCorquodale, 238 Westwood avenue, with other visitors and staff members of the university publications.

U. S. ARMY HAS DEVELOPED NEW 70-MILE AN HOUR 'SNOWMOBILE'

WASHINGTON— (INS) —The army has developed a new-type "snowmobile," capable of dragging a field gun 70 miles an hour over waist high snow, the war department revealed.

This was disclosed with showing of motion pictures of the training of ski troops at Lake Placid, New York. Officials said some 1,500 men have now been given an intensive week of training in the use of skis and handling of weapons in snow.

The new "snowmobile" used by these troops has caterpiller type wheels and drags a heavy field piece mounted on a sled. Machine guns and smaller weapons are carried by the skiing soldiers.

Learning the use of skis in formation has not been without hardships, it was disclosed. On one trip two men suffered broken legs and had to be brought to camp by dog sleds.

Another Freak Accident.

In another freak accident, a small dog got in front of a line of soldiers on skis. The men tried to dodge the animal, became fouled, and 15 of them piled up. One man struck a tree and broke his leg.

The men are trained in units of about 200 who go up to Lake Placid from Plattsburg, N. Y., each week. The head trainer is Rolph Monsen, former Olympic skier who served with the Norwegian ski troops and who is now an American citizen.

The men start their course with instructions in waxing skiis and caring for their special white clothing. Then they get instructions and actual practice on skis for eight hours a day.

HAT DECOYS BIRD

MEMPHIS, Tenn. — (U.P.) — The woman's hat, object of many a joke, has been used successfully as a decoy for birds. Mrs. W. O. Crump reported that she and a cousin tried without avail to catch a bird that was learning to fly. The job was easy when it noticed an artificial bird on Mrs. Crump's hat. It flew up and perched beside it. She reached up and caught it.

SURGERY SUCCESSFUL

MILFORD, Mass. — (U.P.) — Miss Mildred Gilmore, 37, has undergone 18 operations in a long struggle to regain use of her limbs. She has almost recovered from a childhood attack of paralysis which crippled her right leg.

ISSUES REPORT

Auditor Says $124,045 City's Balance as of March 18.

P. L. Kelly, city auditor, announced today that up to March 18, the city had a cash balance of $124,045.43. The general fund showed a deficit of $2,219.76 but this, according to Kelly, was due to the non-receipt of taxes yet this year.

No advances from the city's tax payments have been asked as yet, said Kelly. He explained that Mansfield has not yet asked for its share of taxes collected for the year.

Other balances shown in his report were water works, $44,254.90; garbage, $9,078.58; sanitary sewer, $33,370.08; and specials fund, $39,370.08.

The auditor's report will be made to Council at its meeting April 1.

INITIAL CARVER BUSY

SEATTLE, Wash.—(U.P.)—Even art has no leeway in a temple of justice, Richard Hughes, 22-year-old carpenter learned. Awaiting hearing on a traffic violation charge, Hughes carved his initials on a bench. He was fined twice—$10 for the traffic violation and $5 for his spontaneous artistry.

Food for Hungry Parisians

Hungry residents of Nazi-occupied Paris crowd a "warm drinks center" where bowls of soup and chocolate are served by volunteer workers. Those who can pay are charged one franc. According to information passed by the Nazi censor, the center was sponsored by Charles Magny, prefect of the Seine, in conjunction with the Nazi authorities.

Richland Sales Tax Revenues Top Receipts of '40

Richland county sales tax receipts to the middle of March passed the $100,000 mark and moved $7,000 ahead of collections for a corresponding period last year, according to the weekly report compiled by State-Treasurer Don H. Ebright.

Receipts from sales tax stamps for the period this year were $101,319 as compared to $94,232 in 1940. For the second week of March collections amounted to $11,007, a gain of $2,449 over the corresponding week of 1940, the report showed.

In Ohio, receipts for this year amount to $8,614,565, approximately $1,000,000 more than the state collected from the same source in the first 10 weeks of 1940. Automobile, furniture, and building material sales continued to head the list.

HARD YEAR FOR METERS

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah—(U.P.)—Salt Lake City motorists—and vandals—are tough on parking meters. During 1940, the traffic commission reports that 443 of the 1935 meters that line the business district streets were put out of commission temporarily. Automobiles knocked down 58 meter standards.

PAM—Counting On It! By A. W. Brewerton

YOU LITTLE GUARDIAN ANGEL! TO THINK YOU SHOWED UP THE ENTIRE F.B.I. IN FINDING THAT MAN!
I DIDN'T DO MUCH, DAVID, BUT I DO WANT YOU TO MEET THAT NICE MAN WHO HELPED ME.
3-21
BUT, DAVID, IT'S JUST TERRIBLE THEY KEEP YOU HERE! DO THEY GIVE YOU GOOD FOOD? DO YOU FEEL ALL RIGHT?
NOW, NOW, DONT GO WORRYING YOUR PRETTY HEAD ABOUT ME! I'M FINE!
THE CONFINEMENT IS A BIT ANNOYING, BUT THE BOYS WILL HAVE ME OUT OF HERE 'FORE VERY LONG, I'M SURE.
GOODBYE, DEAR. I WISH YOU WERE GOING WITH ME.
OH, I JUST DIDN'T HAVE THE HEART TO TELL HIM THEY DIDN'T FIND THAT MAN'S FINGERPRINTS IN THE D.A.'S OFFICE. I KNOW HE'S COUNTING ON IT SO!

LOWER TRENDS PREVAILING ON TODAY'S MART

Some Stocks Show Mild Early Advances, Others Are Inclined to Drift.

NEW YORK —(U.P.)(AP)— Downward trends prevailed in today's stock market as the buoyant senior utility company issues of the preceding session lost some of their rising momentum.

Small early advances were tacked on preferreds of Standard Gas, American Power & Light and Electric Power & Light but some of these were eliminated later. Mild resistance elsewhere was displayed by common shares of North American, Public Service of N. J., and senior stocks of Pere Marquette.

Inclined to drift lower were U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Chrysler, General Motors, Sears Roebuck, Douglas Aircraft and American Telephone.

Bonds and commodities were somewhat irregular.

Dimming speculative fervor brokers said, were signs of more European war complications. Settlement of a number of strikes in the domestic sector and further business hopefulness, it was suggested, served to limit selling.

2 TO 1 SENATE AID VOTE SEEN

Passage of $7,000,000,000 Measure To Aid Britain Expected Next Week.

$12,000,000,000 — the amount of one world war army bill.

The naval convoy question was raised yesterday at the senate subcommittee's secret hearings on the lend-lease appropriation. Secretary of the Navy Frank Knox was said to have declined to discuss the question.

One of the subcommittee members asked Secretary of War Henry L. Stimson what were the administration's plans for assuring arms deliveries to Britain. Stimson was said to have replied that his department had no plans and referred the question to Knox.

The senator who asked the question reported that Knox declined to discuss convoys. But another member of the subcommittee said Knox also replied "no plans."

Knox and Stimson both were said to have urged speedy enactment of the appropriation bill without change.

In what was regarded as an answer to Mr. Roosevelt's Saturday address, Wheeler said in a nationwide broadcast last night that British progandists and the committee to defend America by aiding the Allies "have nearly attained their objective — active American participation in a foreign war."

"All-out aid for England, Greece and China means all-in war for the United States," Wheeler asserted.

"A lend-lease bill—an alien concentration camp bill—an anti-strike bill—a wiretapping bill—these are the vehicles of one-man government. They will lead to chains and tears for the minorities in our land."

YUGOSLAVS IN SPLIT ON PACT WITH GERMANS

Three Cabinet Members Quit; Nazis Bomb Plymouth, RAF Retaliates.

proved the new program, described by a government leader as one of passive but effective assistance to Germany and Italy, last night and immediately submitted it to military leaders and cabinet ministers to be initialed without discussion.

Belgrade sources said the alliance, which would permit German troops in Bulgaria to go to Italy's aid in Greece at once without fear of being struck in the flank exposed to the west, would enable Germany to move war supplies across Yugoslavia but not troops.

Belgrade dispatches said Yugoslavia would become the fifth nation to affiliate with the Rome-Berlin-Tokyo alliance at ceremonies next week in Berlin or Vienna.

This swift development stunned Greek quarters who said they had been assured only a few days before the crown council would not take any action at this time despite the insistent Axis pressure.

The landing of British troops in Greece to oppose the German Balkan army based in Bulgaria, and passage of the U. S. aid-to-Britain bill also had been expected to keep Yugoslavia marking time.

In neighboring Albania, where unconfirmed border reports said Fascist forces were "rapidly disintegrating," the Greeks said they had repulsed two strong tank-supported Italian attacks and had captured a cousin of Premier Mussolini, identified as Lieut.-Col. Tuveri Ciglio, commander of the 53rd battalion of the 26th Legion of Blackshirts.

British bombers lashed at the German submarine base at Lorient, in Nazi-occupied France, for the 48th time since the war.

Heavily assaulted Thursday night, London had a comparatively quiet night, but seven families were entombed in the wreckage of their homes in a nearby town.

Bad flying weather kept the RAF from overnight raids against Germany.

On the African war front, British bombers intensified their efforts to blast 35,000 Italian troops out of their lofty, siege-bound positions around Cheren, key city of Italian Eritrea.

An RAF communique said "many tons" of bombs were dropped on the Fascist defenders, who must be swept aside before the British can push on to Asmara, the capital, 42 miles distant.

Other British troops, it was announced have re-occupied the town of Hargeisa, in British Somaliland, which fell to the Italians last fall.

The British also declared that natives in the extreme north of Italian Somaliland were in revolt against "what authority" the Italians still maintain there.

Premier Mussolini's high command reported that "continued English attempts to take our Cheren positions all were frustrated" and that renewed British onslaughts against the Libyan desert oasis of Giarabub had been "repulsed everywhere."

declared today. "It was exactly what the governor promised."

Barr, who was delegated by interested citizens here to make the trip, said he hadn't any trouble at all in seeing Ohio's chief executive.

"The governor said he was 'mighty glad' to hear about the trouble. He declared that it was all uncalled for and promised that the matter would be looked into at once," he said.

Barr also went to see Sours after the governor had made an appointment for him, he said.

"Sours asserted that it was a righteous cause that needed righteous treatment," Barr said. "He promised that it wouldn't happen again."

Germans at Tripoli Bolster Fascists

Released by the German censor, this radiophoto from Berlin shows German troops marching through Tripoli, important seaport in the Italian African colony of Libya. These troops have already appeared in action and it is reported that Italian supply ships running the British Mediterranean blockade are loaded heavily with German tools of war.

due to arrive in Los Angeles today to try to settle the CIO-called strike at the Harvill Die Casting company. Officials of six large factories turning out planes for the United States and British governments declared airplane plants on the west coast would have to shut down unless the strike ends quickly and they can get needed parts from Harvill.

Prospects brightened for settlement of the strike of 2,000 AFL employes of the Cornell Dubilier Electrical and Radio Parts manufacturing company at South Plainfield, N. J.

Negotiations proceeded at New York on a soft coal mining contract, and at Pittsburgh toward a new contract between CIO steel workers and the big Carnegie-Illinois Steel corporation. Wage increases were sought by both unions. Any new steel wage agreement was expected ultimately to affect most of the country's 600,000 steel workers. The CIO-United Mine workers' negotiations with coal operators directly involve 330,000 miners in the 8-State Appalachian area, and indirectly may affect the contracts of 120,000 additional miners in other sections.

A strike which has stopped construction work for three weeks at the army air corps' $5,900,000 testing laboratories at Wright Field, remained unsettled, and the war department was reported to have decided to wait a little longer before taking such "drastic" action as had been hinted by an army spokesman earlier in the week. It had been reported then that the army might take over the construction work, completing it with labor supplied from civil service rolls.

AFL building trades members quit work at the field when five CIO employes of an electrical contractor began working.

Sidney Hillman, associate director of the office of production management, met at Washington yesterday with representatives of CIO workers who are on strike at the Aluminum Company of America plant, Edgewater, N. J.

for life. Parachute flares, incendiary bombs, then explosive bombs, then a long rain of incendiary and explosive bombs mixed had crashed on the city for hours.

Coventry Exhibits Surprising Recovery

COVENTRY, England — (U.P.) — Coventry, bombed and burned last November like no other British city in this war, has bounded back.

People laugh, whistle and go about their work. Children are playing in the streets and school lots again.

In this quick recovery, Mayor J. C. Moseley avers that civic co-operation has been so good that if the legendary Lady Godiva—she of the nude ride in protest against high taxes—headed her white horse down Coventry's streets again after requesting that nobody look "I'm sure even peeping Tom would co-operate."

Fire-blackened cathedral walls stand as a gaunt reminder of the destruction, but stores have been reopened and new ones set up.

A purchaser can get the latest clothes, house furnishings, fertilizer, spring flowers, green goods, children's toys — practically anything he can buy anywhere else in England.

Many who lost their homes, life savings and even their families, are staying on to help rebuild.

Judge Huston also continued the case of Harry Simpson, 64, Mansfield father of 13 children, who pleaded guilty to an indictment for non-support.

John Ritchie, Mansfield, accused of arson as the result of the fire which destroyed a grocery store and dwelling at Trailer City, entered no plea, asked for more time to study His counsel, Atty. George Bleckthe case.

Albert Twyman, accused of receiving stolen property; William Henry Smith, indicted for breaking and entering; W. E. Weaver, forgery; Clayton Baldwin and Presteon Hardin, assault and battery.

Harold Fletcher, Shelby, indicted for non-support; Charles Morton, Mansfield, accused of removing mortgaged propertey, and Sebastain Teschler, named in a non-support indictment, pleaded innocent.

REFUGEE TREK TO CARIBBEAN WILL BE SLOW

Predictions Made That Total By End of the Year Will Be About 1,300.

(By United Press)

PITTSBURGH—Three hundred European refugees already have settled in the Dominion Republic and 1,000 more are expected to be established there by the close of 1941, George L. Warren, executive secretary of the President's Advisory Council on Political Refugees, revealed here.

Refugees are beginning a new phase of their lives on a 26,000-acre settlement donated by the Dominion Republic for their rehabilitation. Another 50,000 acres have been added to the original plot by a donation of Gen. Rafael Trujillio, former president of the republic.

The plan to rehabilitate the refugees, Warren explained, was evolved at Evian, France, shortly after the Austrian Anschluss with Germany in 1938. The meeting was attended by representatives of 32 countries, including the United States.

Under terms of the Evian conference, The Dominican Republic agreed to accept 100,000 refugees. The refugees recently began to arrive in numbers, and are coming into the country every week in groups of 10 or 25, Warren said.

European representatives of the committee select the refugees carefully . on the basis of character and possible contributions they will be able to make to the new communities. Most were living in Western Europe, where they fled from countries invaded by the totalitarian nations.

Reception areas where they live in the Caribbean country are underpopulated lands, generally devoted to one crop. Under the rehabilitation plan, it is believed, many of the refugees will introduce diversified crops and eventually may enter many types of manufacturing and industry that do not compete with current operations.

Modern Colonies Planned.

The finished community will have a place for representatives of all trades, occupations and professions, and living and working conditions will be enhanced by modern scientific equipment to as great a degree as possible, according to Warren.

Cost of transportation from Europe to the settlement area, which is near Puerto Plata in Dominica, is paid by the American-Jewish Joint Distribution Committee or by relatives of the refugees. In many instances the money is advanced in the form of loans, to be repaid when the refugee re-establishes himself.

Eventual size of the communities, Warren said, will be determined by the rate of production of both agricultural and industrial materials. The Falk Foundation, of Pittsburgh, has appropriated $50,000 for a survey.

Deer Hunters Disgraced In Paddling Ceremony.

MONTGOMERY, Ala. — (U P) — The Alabama state conservation department has a disgrace to wipe out this year.

Two of its high-ranking officials have lost their shirt-tails on hunting trips. Moreover, they received paddlings because they had missed pot-shots at deer.

The traditional ceremony signifying their disgrace was performed on Albert Gill, new conservation director, and Ben Morgan, chief of the game and fish division.

Fire-Eating Helps Pay Expenses for Harvard Student

CAMBRIDGE, Mass.— (U P) — Reed B. Dawson of Mount Vernon, N. Y., is paying part of his college expenses by acting as a "fire-eater."

He is a junior at Harvard and his acts have made him a popular attraction at Boston parties. His specialty is setting fire to his hands and letting the flames creep up his arms.

"It really only tickles," he said, "though most people think you are burning to death. I do it all with chemicals."

Swallowing fire, he says, is just like breathing in warm air—if done properly. Dawson needs more chemicals before he can put on a big show because, without them, "even a lighted match burns the roof of my mouth."

British Blow Up Nazi Glycerine Factory

A glycerine plant which had been turning out the fluid for German explosives is shattered by the blast as the British blow up the factory during their raid on the Lofoten Islands, off Norway. The raiders made a clean sweep of all war material plants, seized 225 prisoners and rescued more than 300 Norwegian patriots from the Nazi yoke.

SHANGHAI NOW SHELTERS MORE THAN 20,000 REFUGEE JEWS

SHANGHAI - (U P) - Shanghai, which for nearly a century has been a frequent city of refuge, again has assumed that role, and for two years now, has been the chief haven for Jews from Central Europe.

Repeatedly, this city of the East absorbed countless thousands of refugees who were escaping from China's troubles, and for several years after 1917, Shanghai was the haven for thousands of Russians fleeing from the new regime in their homeland.

Since the anti-Semitic outburst in Europe reached the present intensity, nearly 20,000 Jews, chiefly German and Austrian, have landed in Shanghai's Bund, and have made their homes here.

Historical records show that China once before—1900 years ago - was a refuge for Jews. These ancient records indicate that Jewish refugees came to China probably soon after A. D. 34 as a result of Babylonian persecutions.

However, when Jewish immigrants began to steam into Shanghai, they started to settle in Hongkew, Shankhai's Japanese-controlled "Little Tokyo," where freedom was presumably least guaranteed. Thus Hongkew, home of some 20,000 Jews, now has its own section with Jewish shops, cafes and industries.

However, as the stream of Jewish immigration swelled into torrent — there were 15,000 by August, 1939—the Japanese decided it was time to raise the bars. An immigration regulation adopted on Aug. 11, 1939, with the agreement of the municipal council and the French concession council, provided that all German Jews, who were distinguished by the letter "J" on their passport, would be prohibited entry into Shanghai unless they possessed $400 or had relatives with jobs here.

Mansfield News-Journal

AN INDEPENDENT NEWSPAPER

MANSFIELD, OHIO, FRIDAY, MARCH 21, 1941.

"The first robin" seems to have sent word that it's all right for others to return.

It appears that in addition to being the "arsenal" and "granary," we are also to be the pocketbook of democracy.

Spring housecleaning may seem bad enough over here, but think what some of families in England have on their hands after a air raid.

Politics Decides Tax Apportionment

BATTLE over distribution of sales tax revenues ended with the legislature deciding that cities and local subdivisions must get along on the $12,000,000 set up in Governor Bricker's program, instead of the more equable apportionment proposed by a number of Ohio cities in urgent need for more funds.

The decision was reached by a strictly party vote of 19 to 17 in the state senate, with all Republicans voting for the Bricker program and all Democrats voting against it.

This can scarcely be regarded as a fair determination of the issue on its merits, as even the most violent partisans would be unlikely to contend that such a decision should be made along entirely political party lines.

Shortly before the senate vote was taken, for instance, it was indicated that several Republican senators, including P. H. Rogers and Joseph Jameson, representing this district, favored larger apportionment of sales tax for local use—but whatever their actual views may have been they were finally herded to the party majority, which reflected partisan interests instead of regard for the welfare of cities and counties in their own district.

When it is recalled that the retail sales tax law was originally enacted as an "emergency" measure, to relieve the financial plight of school districts and local governments, the present allocation of less than one-fourth of this revenue to cities and local subdivisions in which it is produced gives an idea of how far political practice can depart from good intentions.

Coming from another part of this four-county senatorial district, Mansfield and Richland county residents have not been privileged to become well acquainted with the two men who are our state senators—maybe they have more qualifications of statemanship than have yet been disclosed—but maybe, again, they are merely a couple of run-of-mine politicians, more interested in playing party politics than in looking after the interests of their district and the welfare of the state in general.

An Example of Friendly Interest

RAYMOND B. FOSDICK, president of the Rockefeller Foundation, announced recently that $100,000 had been appropriated to initiate a plan under which British medical students would finish their training in the United States or Canada. They have been bombed out of their own medical schools and training hospitals. The first students are expected to arrive in the spring.

Twenty-five leading colleges on this side of the Atlantic have expressed readiness to co-operate. Some have offered to waive tuition fees.

This sort of thing is so sensible that it creates no stir at all. The small attention paid to it is evidence of the ease with which new situations may be met and new forms of co-operation devised when two peoples are sincerely interested in helping each other in a tight place.

"Union Now," meaning a formal, political union, seems to many Americans premature and unnecessary. But "union now," meaning an informal but wholehearted working together for common goals and humane purposes, is already widely accepted in the United States and in the British Commonwealth of Nations.

Gambled With Union Funds

ONE of the evils of commercialized gambling not ordinarily taken into account in cities which condone it, is the extent to which it makes thieves out of people who might otherwise be able to withstand the temptation to take other people's money.

While such occurrences are common to every community, a particularly glaring example has been disclosed in Toledo, where the financial secretary of the carpenters' union has confessed he squandered more than $2,500 of labor union funds at a gambling place which has been under police investigation.

As is usually the case, the shortage was discovered during an audit of the union books. Before the disclosure, of course, the man had an excellent record for honesty, else he would not have been entrusted with the thousands of dollars paid by union members as dues.

Many Visit Will Rogers Memorial

AMERICANS do not forget Will Rogers. The Tulsa World reports that more than 2,000 persons visit his memorial at Claremore every day. They come, as the register shows, from all over the country. There have been nearly 2,000,000 of them since the memorial was dedicated in November, 1938.

America's most famous cowboy would probably be genuinely surprised, if not amused, by this stream of visitors. He would also be touched, for Rogers was warmly responsive to human interest and sympathy. He never set himself up as being anybody in particular, but he met most of the world's leaders at one time or another and, though shy in a sense, talked with them unabashed and kidded them deftly.

Rogers used to say he never knew a man he didn't like. Americans who remember Rogers' political debunking skill regret that it cannot be turned loose on some of the more vocal stuffed shirts of the present time.

Industry Mobilizing Rapidly

AMERICAN industry has seemed slow in getting started on its present job, but immense progress has already been made. The necessary re-tooling and expanding has been much more rapid than in the last war, and it will soon be seen that results are far greater.

"During ten years of depression," Walter Lippmann observes, "we have become so used to thinking badly of ourselves that we do not yet dare to realize what a mighty thing is American industry when its energies are really set in motion."

In a very few months it will be evident that no foreign power, or combination of powers, can match it.

OVERDOING THE TRAFFIC HOLDUP

Congress Retains Taxing Power

—By CARTER FIELD

WASHINGTON—Congress is going to make what will at least seem to be a convincing demonstration very shortly now that it has not abrogated ALL its powers. That will be when it takes up the tax bill.

President Roosevelt has given no indication so far of any desire to impose his wishes on congress on this question, though it is too much to expect that he will not have ideas before the bill reaches final passage. There is a disposition, however, for congress to act very independently on this issue.

Congress has always been very jealous of its tax powers. The bill, under the constitution, must originate in the house. It is the only type of legislation so restricted, despite the very popular though erroneous impression that appropriation bills are governed by the same rule.

CONGRESS has quarreled vigorously with nearly every president on tax questions. Even President Roosevelt has not always found it easy to impose his will in this particular field. The one big tax fight he made, and won, he subsequently lost. This was when he forced through the tax on undistributed corporation earnings, which congress later modified, and finally virtually eliminated.

This particular effort was aimed more at social reform than at money-raising. It was an attempt by the government to force corporations on a course they did not like. It purported to take the side of stockholders as against management, forcing management to float new securities rather than finance expansion out of undistributed earnings.

The present picture does not lend itself to that sort of use of the taxing power to force reforms, whether social or economic. Beyond doubt there will be some gesture along the line of taking profit out of war, but that will need no pressure from the White House. Congress is all set for that. It is good politics always, entirely aside from the merit or demerit of the idea.

But this time the main purpose will really be to let no guilty nickel escape. The government needs the money. It needs more than it can possibly raise, and hence will have to do a lot of borrowing. Not only that, but that condition will prevail for several years to come in all human probability.

SO MEMBERS of the house and senate will look askance at any tax proposal which has for its real objective social or economic reform rather than money-raising.

There is another phase to this business of needing a lot of revenue. When this bill about to come up is finally enacted it will probably never merit the name of a "soak the rich" bill. The answer to that is very simple. This bill will have to raise so much money that it is going to have to hit everybody who has any money. The rich, despite left-wing oratory, have very little in the aggregate which can be reached by taxation. The taxes on the rich will be boosted, of course, but the real burden is going to fall on the little fellows.

It so happens that taxes on big incomes are already pretty high. They will be made higher, but there is not much nutriment in this direction. The old law of diminishing returns enters. Many tax experts think that even a small boost in the rates on the top brackets would produce not more, but less money.

About 'Frustration'

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

THERE'S a word, increasingly used in our modern conversation, which burns me. And definitely. It's "FRUSTRATION."

How come? Isn't this word highly respectable? It is. Don't all our best sociologists and psychologists use it? They do. Hasn't it increased in public popularity by leaps and bounds since someone first put it on the market? And how! But that's just the point.

Instead of being a scientific term for a definite condition, "frustration" has become the top alibi for every whiner and pouter in the country.

As a mere piece of vocabulary, frustration means being "thwarted, foiled, balked, hindered, prevented from attaining a purpose," etc., etc. In other words, you've tried your darndest to do something but some Meanie or Obstacle has prevented you.

Which is a good reason for anyone going into a fit of pouts, or wallowing in a nice, damp orgy of self pity. But if you think frustration means this in the popular application, you don't know your average human stranger.

Instead of meaning a determined but thwarted attempt, frustration has come to mean SOMETHING YOU WANTED BUT DIDN'T GET. SO, SAYS YOU, IT NATURALLY FOLLOWS THAT SOMEONE MUST HAVE DONE YOU DIRT.

But it doesn't "naturally follow." Merely wanting something and not getting it doesn't entitle you to join the ranks of the frustrated. Or give you any other kind of an out.

You've got to fight before you can be frustrated. Most times, our so-called "frustrations" are due to our own laziness and spinelessness. Or conceit.

Often we want things far beyond our natural scope or talent. There's no use hoping to be a tap dancer if you've bow legs and ingrowing toenails. And you might as well clip your dreams before they clip you. Oftener we want things for which we are not willing to pay the price. We long to be great writers, musicians, actors, big business men. Glamorous titles, these. But behind those titles be years of gruelling drudgery, monotony, sacrifice, obscurity. So what? Are you willing to endure that gruelling test? Or do you just dream about the spot lights which lie ahead—the flattery and applause?

And, when the dream doesn't come true, whom do you blame? Yourself? Or the System? Or some cold-hearted relation who wouldn't grub stake you?

Frustration. What a handy hide-away it is for cry-babies! What an alibi for folks who didn't have the spunk to conquer their own cussedness and cowardice! Frustrated? Sure they were. But who did it? They, themselves.

It's a vicious word, frustration. But it's never so vicious as when it is applied to Youth. How often we hear that phrase, "frustrated Youth," these days. And how many otherwise hopeful youngsters have taken the count because of it!

What does "frustration" mean to the average, inexperienced youngster? Does it mean what it was meant to mean, an unfair thwarting of honest, determined endeavor? It does not. It means that his day dreams haven't come true . . . that his vague gestures haven't clicked . . . that his egotistical desires have gotten a kick in the teeth.

All of which we Old Timers likewise felt in our own youth. But did anyone tell us we were "frustrated?" They did not. They told us to "snap out of it," with various side remarks which the editor will not allow me to repeat. And, generally speaking, we snapped. It's wonderful how much you can accomplish when you haven't an alibi.

Of all the poisonous propaganda which we hand our youngsters, and nibble ourselves, this convenient theory of frustration is the worst. Actually, almost nothing, and no one on earth can frustrate you if you've common sense and spunk—and are willing to put up a fight to make good. But that takes plenty of doing, partner. Have you what it takes?

British Reserve Munitions Sent To Greek Front After Lease Act

—By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON—Anything can happen in the tempestuous Balkans, but it seems certain that Roosevelt diplomacy and the lease-lend bill were responsible for delaying the Nazi attack on Greece for at least ten days.

The big thing which the lend-lease bill did for the British was to permit tanks, anti-tank guns, and anti-aircraft guns to be landed at Salonika immediately. The British had only limited supplies of these, and had to keep some in reserve for use around Suez and other vital Mediterranean areas.

However, with passage of the lend-lease bill, they knew they could get reserves later from the United States, therefore threw all their present reserves onto the Greek front.

This type of munitions is what the Jugoslav army and the Turks have especially needed. They have plenty of rifles, machine guns and a reasonable amount of artillery: but few anti-tank or anti-aircraft guns to stop the advance of modern mechanized forces.

The hurried shipment of these British supplies, therefore, worked wonders in weaning Jugoslavia away from the Axis.

Simultaneously, Roosevelt had been in consultation with the Jugoslav minister in Washington, and just one day after the lease-lend bill was signed, gave him categoric promises of American munitions. This also had its effect on Belgrade.

Note—The Balkans has been getting its American news chiefly from the official German DNB news agency, which had played up all the Wheeler-Nye speeches, gave the impression that the United States was against Roosevelt and tat the bill could not pass. Final passage, however, could not be suppressed in the news dispatches and had a tremendous effect upon Balkan public opinion, which recalled how American entrance into the last war had turned the tables.

Capital Chaff.

AT THE LEFT on his desk, Vice President Henry Wallace has a telephone which communicates directly with the White House. . . . No less than three secretaries—a light blond, a medium blond and a brunette—take stenographic notes of every word said at Steve Early's daily press conference. . . . At the dinner given by the White House Correspondents, six secret service men were seated near the president. . . . Many a government clerk knows the Supreme court chiefly as an eating place. Its cafeteria, below the court room, serves 7500 persons a month. . . . Most popular government cafeteria is in the New Interior building, serving 92,000 meals a month. . . . J. Edgar Hoover and Norman Davis are regular clients of a cafeteria near the state department.

CIO Protest.

PHIL MURRAY'S blast at the defense labor mediation board was the only CIO squawk registered that day against the administration's efforts to avert costly tie-ups in defense production. A few hours earlier, Alan Haywood, CIO director of organization, voiced similar sentiments directly to the president at the White House conference with members of Sidney Hillman's advisory committee.

The committee consists of AFL, CIO, and Railway Brotherhood leaders, and had gone to the White House for an informal chat on the defense program. The meeting was quite cordial until Haywood tossed his brickbat.

Haywood happens to be a henchman of John L. Lewis and was one of the few CIO leaders who followed his lead in bolting to Willkie. Though not a left-winger, Haywood has gone along with Lewis in playing ball with the "party line" boys.

However, Harry Bates, head of the bricklayers, pledged the "fullest support" of the craft unions and told Roosevelt he could count on the AFL for the mediation board plan.

"We realize our responsibility to keep production moving at the fastest possible pace at this critical time, Mr. President," Bates said. "We know you will see to it that the rights of labor are protected, and you can depend on us to back you up 100 per cent in this plan to prevent interruptions of work."

Al Johnson of the Railway Engineers, speaking for the Brotherhoods, echoed Bates' words. But not Haywood.

"The CIO," he said, "has a complicated task in protecting the interests of its huge membership in the big industrial plants. We want to co-operate, but we don't think this mediation plan will work because of the restraints it imposes on labor."

"In other words," remarked Roosevelt with a quiet smile, "you will co-operate, but—."

Ohio Politics.

JOHN BIGGERS, potent Toledo glass manufacturer now drawing $1 a year with the National Defense Commission, is getting the reputation in political circles of aspiring to the role once held by Walter "High-Hat" Brown, Hoover's postmaster general, also from Toledo.

Biggers, a Republican, not only is playing an important role in the Defense Commission (where he is frequently at odds with the New Deal), but more recently has dipped one hand into Democratic politics. His latest move is to push the appointment of an old friend, Frazier Reams of Toledo, a Democrat, for appointment as collector of internal revenue in northwest Ohio.

Reams' appointment is being vigorously opposed by New Deal Democrats on the ground that he was anti-Roosevelt in the last campaign (though he worked for Roosevelt in 1936), also just because he has the backing of Republican Biggers. They point out that if Reams gets the powerful job of collector of internal revenue, an anti-New Dealer will then have a near monoply on important political posts in the Toledo area.

For Reams' law partner already has been made a United States commissioner, while his law office handles a large part of the legal work for the Home Owners' Loan Corporation and other federal agencies in this part of Ohio. Finally, Reams himself has been given an important radio license and is owner of a radio station.

The treasury department is known to favor the appointment of Ralph Snyder, a former editor and writer with The Toledo Blade and News-Bee, for the internal revenue post. Therefore, all eyes are watching the appointment to see whether Republican Biggers or the New Dealers win out in this test.

Man About Manhattan

—By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—Ezra Stone was standing in a flea circus and shaking his head in wonder at the antics of the little beasts when a man next to him said, "I wonder how they train them."

"I don't know," Stone said, slowly, "unless they beat them."

John Buckmaster, although unfailingly polite, occasionally cracks down on annoyers who ruin his night club act by carrying on conversations while he is onstage. Buckmaster is a mime and his characterizations of people have won much applause during the last two seasons.

At his first show the other evening a lady who, to put it bluntly, was over-tanked on gin, kept calling "Come on over and say hello—come on over and say hello." Buckmaster ignored this, but two hours later, when he returned for another appearance, she was still there and at once began crying, "Come on over and say hello."

Finally, after she had called to him a dozen times, Buckmaster stopped his act and said, "No, but I'll be glad to say good-bye."

However, this had no effect on the lady whatever. She was still there, still tanked, still having a high old time when Buckmaster departed.

WE DROPPED by the studios at 155 East 24th street the other evening just as Gertrude Lawrence got out of a cab and came in. The star of "Lady in the Dark" was there to make some recordings for Victor of the tunes in her hit show, and it soon became apparent that Miss Lawrence likes to "warm up" her voice before she begins to record.

She trotted around the studios, climbed a 20-foot ladder which is ordinarily used by photographers, flexed her muscles, yelled greetings to friends, and finally pronounced herself ready. The act of recording these numbers required five hours. It used up an entire Sunday evening, and it was after midnight when the actress slipped into her long lynx coat and returned to her apartment.

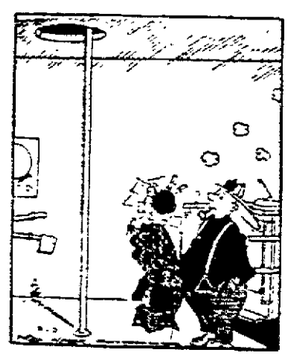
Among those with Miss Lawrence was Kurt Weill, the composer, who wrote those songs for her—"My Ship," "This Is New," "The Princess of Pure Delight," "One Life to Live," "Oh Fabulous One," and others.

It was the first time I had seen Weill since "Knickerbocker Holiday." Weill was first brought to New York by Max Reinhardt to work on "The Eternal Road."

Scotty Reston, former AP news writer and now a foreign correspondent for the New York Times, came down with a stubborn fever shortly after his return from London. He is in Roosevelt hospital for observation. When I asked him if he wanted anything to read, he said, "No, I think I'll just lie here and look off into space. It's something I haven't had a chance to do for four years."

Frank Tweddell, the actor known for his fine characterizations of servants, is the son of a British army officer. He was born in India.

LIFE'S LIKE THAT



". . . . How thrilling . . . . but don't you have an awful job getting back up?!!"

Timely Editorial

Simple As A. B. C.

Washington reports tell of the gigantic spending that is being planned for defense and British aid. Never mind the number of billions. It is too high to mean anything to plain citizens.

But actually, spending has its limits—even in an emergency, hurry-up attempt.

The amount we can spend depends primarily upon the amount we can produce in materials of war—Churchill's "tools."

And the amount we can produce depends upon our willingness to work—no forced labor but just plain work for good pay,—no drafting, as men are drafted for training, at very low pay.

The drafted men do their job; the citizen does his paying—for defense as for everything else. He must work long and hard to meet the bills.

Are we all going to work? Or is there going to be any lying down on the job, anywhere?—Kansas City Star.

A Farmer's Diary

Earth Worms

—By CALVIN A. BYERS

A SURE SIGN of spring is when a robin and a fishing worm meet upon the lawn or in the field. Both are welcome visitors, but the robin's song, his eagerness for action, and his domestic inclinations make him seem more akin to the human family.

Yet, of the two, if we but knew, the award of superior value should go to the slimy, cold hearted angleworm . . . "sans eyes, sans ears sans nose," a defenseless, writhing creature.

For the fruitfulness of any crop that grows in field or garden depends upon these wriggling dwellers of the earth. The greater number of them a farmer can entice upon his field the more fertile will be his soil.

Many times they burrow two feet or more into the earth and remain there during the winter months. When spring rains start, and thaw the icy ground, the partially closed entrances fill with water and to keep from drowning they crawl to the surface. The myriad small canals open tiny waterways that connect the subsoil with the dark top layer. When dry weather comes, this is a reservoir that supplies the cultivated plants with moisture.

In autumn, these creatures carry down to the very bottom of their winter home, bits of leaves and stubble which enrich the subsoil. Their food, derived from the earth and coursing through their slender bodies is pulverized by their gizzards into silty fineness. Even small grains of sand and flint are acted upon. Thus they plow the earth deeper than any tool that man has yet devised. This makes possible chemical action that dissolves vital locked up minerals that crops may use.

Should there be as many as a million and a half to each acre, these helpful worms would produce a fertilizer equal to eight tons or more of rich manure. But few fields have a tenth of this number.

Earthworms can be increased by placing cornmeal or finely ground grain into the damp soil of the spring season. I intend to investigate earthworm farming further, and raise a patch of earth worms in my garden.

4 HERE LISTED AS OBJECTORS TO DRAFT LAW

More Than 3,000 Placed In 4-E Class Over State, Board Records Disclose.

Although more than 3,000 men have been classified under the selective service law in Richland county, only four have been placed in the 4-E, or conscientious objector, classification, records of boards showed today.

That number is about the average for counties the size of Richland, but it is far below the record of 60 objectors in Holmes county, which tops the list in Ohio. There are 222 in the state.

The huge number of Holmes county objectors was attributed to the Amish settlement near Millersburg and the religious beliefs of the Amish people.

There may be a call soon for the objectors to go to special camps, war department officials said. The government plans to place the men who are opposed to both combatant and noncombatant in camps where they will work in forestration, soil conservation and other jobs that will be helpful to the country.

The camps will be similar to CCC projects. No military training will be required, Lieut. John J. Nolan of the state selective service classification division said.

"All we know is that the men will see service in a unit that is unarmed at all times," Nolan said. "They might be assigned to the medical department or some other unit that does not require onjectors to bear arms or to be trained in their use—if they so desire."

MOUNTIES HIT DRUG SELLERS

Illicit Narcotics Trade Cut To Lowest Level In All West Coast History.

VANCOUVER, B. C.—(U.P.)—Efforts of a small group of efficient federal police and the gradual disappearance of Old World Chinese from Canada have brought the highest prices for narcotics and the lowest volume of trade ever known on the West Coast.

The current price for drugs purchased illegally ranges slightly below $500 for a five-tael tin, about nine times the price "junk" brought in the Vancouver underworld in 1935.

Major factor in the decline of the illegal traffic has been the Royal Canadian Mounted Police narcotics squad, headed by Detective Sergt. J. G. Haywood, a former constable of the British International Settlement police in Shanghai. Haywood is familiar with the Oriental aspects of the traffic, and knows several Chinese dialects.

Haywood was sent back to the Orient by the R. C. M. P. twice in 1938. When the squad made its major coup by exposing a Chinese retail drug firm as a heavy illegal importer of narcotics. Two Canadian commissions took evidence in the case, ramifications of which reached China and the United States.

Changes in drug-taking habits as well as a reduction in the number of addicts have resulted from the decline of first-generation Chinese immigrants, many of whom have either died or returned home. The older Chinese, if they used narcotics, smoked opium, a habit that has almost disappeared in this country.

The modern practice among addicts is to take the drug through injections—generally regarded as more harmful to the system than smoking.

DEFENSE JOB REGISTRATION CONTINUES AT BUC OFFICES

C. W. Handley, district manager of the Mansfield district office of the State Bureau of Unemployment Compensation, who is directing the voluntary registration of all defense-skilled workers in Richland and Morrow counties, announced today that the drive is progressing satisfactorily.

"We are discovering new abilities in selective defense groups," said Handley. "Work records which were before incomplete are now being brought up to date and more inclusive."

Handley said that he expects a large number of workers for defense projects will be uncovered in this district.

"Of course," said the district manager," our former reports were based on all types of workers and will not allow me to guess how many defense workers we will have. I hope to have a survey by the end of the week, however, which will show definitely just how many workers there will be in each selected defense work."

The registration which opened last Saturday will be continued until April 15. All aircraft workers, shipbuilders and machine shop workers are asked to register voluntarily. The local registration is part of a national plan to mobilize skilled labor in case of an emergency.

Veteran of Civil War Takes First Plane Ride at 92

BOULDER, Colo.—(INS)—Robert T. Bryant, 92-year-old Boulder Civil War veteran, became an airplane enthusiast recently after his first flight. And just to make things even, the pilot on Bryant's maiden trip, Aubrey Leonard, was taking his first passenger aloft.

Leonard, a senior engineering student at the University of Colorado was awarded his private pilot's license a short time ago after completing a CAA course at the local airport. When he began the course, he promised Bryant he would be his first passenger.

Bryant, last surviving member of the Boulder Grand Army of the Republic Post, and Leonard's grandfather were buddies in the Civil war.

LODGE MEETS

GALION—Several distinguished visitors of the Masonic order were present Thursday evening when Galion lodge No. 414, F. and A. M., was host at a special meeting.

Charles Coyle, worshipful master of the local lodge, presided. The speaker of the evening was John E. Powell of Columbus, commander-in-chief of Scioto Consistory. Other guests present were Robert Taylor, secretary of the Scioto Consistory, and Past Grand High Priest Franz K. Hall of Shelby.

Here Are a Few Tips on What to Send Draftees

FORT ORD, Cal.—(INS)—For relatives of the boys at army camps, Chaplain W. V. Morgan, of the 13th Engineers, has compiled the following list of suggestions to make the lot of the draftees and regulars a happier one.

1 The mailman is one of the most important persons on earth to soldiering youths. To avert loneliness, they should receive at least one letter every week.

2 Laundry problems are multitudious. Just send a handkerchief or a pair of socks occasionally.

3 Candy makes a fine present. It should be wrapped in oiled paper

4 Send a book of stamps Soldiers find it difficult to get to the postoffice to mail letters

5 Send the home town newspaper

6. Adopt a package-a-week plan. If you have lots of things to send, mail them singly. It is more fun for the soldiers that way. Among prized items are tobacco, razor blades and camphor ice for chapped lips.

100 YEARS AGO

Firm Finds Ice Box was New, Lobster Was 8 Cents.

NEW YORK—(U.P.)—A firm celebrating its 100th anniversary this month poked back into records and found these items:

In December, 1840, New York City had a population of 312,700 (1940 population about 7,300,000).

Lobster sold for 8 cents a pound, porterhouse steak for 12 cents and fresh beef for 5 cents a pound. The ice box was less than a year old and daguerreotype had just been introduced.

There was a standing offer of $1,000 to anyone who could run 10 miles in less than an hour.

Clean Hair Can Be Fixed Easily

Before the era of bobbed hair there used to be a saying that became a cliche — "I've just washed my hair and can't do a thing with it." Nowadays women find quite the reverse to be true —it is the clean, well shampooed hair that gives the best results to the snappy hair-dos.

The hair needs to be washed frequently to be its prettiest. How frequently depends upon a lot of things—whether there is much soot and grime in the air, whether one's work is in a dusty place, whether your skin and hair are oily or dry, and whether you are exposed to tobacco and other odors that may cling. As a general rule, however, hair should be washed at least every ten days or two weeks, even in winter.

Many women have found it helpful to include a hot oil treatment occasionally as part of the shampoo, to overcome the dryness that sometimes comes from a permanent and sometimes is due to the artificially heated atmosphere of homes and offices. A dainty way to apply the oil to the scalp is to use the little flannel powder pads that can be bought in big boxes. There is no fuzz to get stuck on the hair as with absorbent cotton. Olive oil, sweet oil, or liquid vaseline may be heated and used. Part the hair and rub a little of the oil on the scalp until it has all been oiled.

THEIR many friends will be pleased to know that two Mansfielders, who are spending this year in the South, are in town for a visit now. . . . Mrs. Jack McKnight and Mrs. Dale Uhlich drove up from Gulfport, Miss., this week with their small children and plan to stay for several days. . . . Their husbands, you know, are stationed with Mansfield's Battery D at Camp Shelby. . . . And speaking of former Mansfield residents in town, Mrs. Frederick Snell (who was Charlet Cellars before her marriage) was here from Cleveland this week for a short visit with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Cellars. . . . Incidentally, she and her husband recently entertained George Barrere of New York City while he was in Cleveland. . . . Barrere is one of the country's leading flautists and is director of the Little Symphony in New York, where he also teaches.

Treatment For Dry, Scaly Skin

Few things will work a hole in the heel of a stocking more quickly than a rough patch of skin on the area where the back of the shoe comes against the foot. Winter weather seems to encourage this roughness, and steps should be taken to minimize the damage it can do to the hosiery.

Particular care of this part of the foot during the daily bath, and special attention during the nightly beauty care, will soften and smooth this troublesome heel-scaling. Bathe the feet well in warm soapy water, letting them soak for a good five minutes. Then use a fairly stiff brush on the area. Rinse the feet well, and dry thoroughly with a clean soft towel. Lubricate the heel section with vaseline or cold cream, and wear light cotton anklets to bed so that the cream will stay on the feet instead of on the sheets.

If the entire leg gets scaly and rough in winter, follow the same course, but apply a hand lotion instead of the heavy cream to the legs.

Hints For Form In Riding

By MME. QUI VIVE

Enthusiastic exquestriennes declare that, next to riding on a magic carpet, their sport is the most fun. Certainly they make a pretty picture. They gallop along with eyes bright, hair flying, figure erect, cheeks rosy.

The seeker after beauty will say that horses cost a lot of money. You don't have to buy one, you can rent one. Or perhaps you prefer to go to a reducing salon and mount an electric horse, get your fat cells dissipated and your liver jiggled. Well, that's your privilege. But don't make any such statement to the woman who loves outdoor life. She'll make faces at you. She will also tell you that she finds in her favorite sport an exhilaration that she does not get from tennis, golf, swimming or any other pastime. She is likely to be quite nutty on the subject.

To be a good rider one must use position and weight to conform to the movements of the horse. That helps to acquire balance and to cultivate good posture, if one hasn't got it. One develops a strong musculature and there's no doubt that this exercise is an excellent fat-fighting agent.

Fresh air aids circulation which, in turn, gives good coloring to the complexion.

The woman who rides beautifully has ease and grace. She is relaxed, trains her horse to be relaxed. No tight muscles. No rigidity of the body.

This state of relaxation does not interfere with pose and balance. She keeps the correct "seat," which means that her weight is distributed over that part of the horse's back that is naturally adapted to carrying weight, that her body is so posed that it gets the least possible jar from the pounding of the horse's hoofs and the movements of his body.

The thigh should be fairly parallel to the slope of the steed's shoulders. The legs remain close to the horse's sides, but without stiffening or pressure. The thigh inclines forward, the lower leg slants backward, the ankle is free and relaxed, the ball of the foot rests in the stirrup.

To keep the position of balance the spinal column curves inward just above the loins, where it should properly curve. This pose of the spinal column is the foundation of good posture. The horsewoman keeps that pose. It becomes a habit. When she dismounts she retains it.

To have form, it is necessary to use the hands with the backs outward, extended straight and true from the forearm.

The rule is: have elbows, hands, knees and heels low; head, chest and heart high.

"Pitfalls of Love"

(A Sequel to Marriage Meddlers)

By ADELE GARRISON

"INDEED you may infer just that," I told Dicky, taking him by the arm and pulling him across the floor with me.

"Hey!" he protested, laughing. "What's the big idea?"

"Hurry!" I whispered "I have something most important to show you, but I don't want to risk anybody coming in suddenly. Let's get into that bay window alcove."

"Right you are," Dicky said, and in another three second we were ensconced behind the sweeping draperies of the bay window, so screened from observation that I knew I could have time to grasp the letter and secrete it before anyone entering the room should have a chance to see that we were looking at it.

"Here!" I said, thrusting the letter into my husband's hands, "a letter from Marion to Ronald, written ten days ago. Tell me what you think of it."

He read it through once and swore a mighty oath.

"Why! the little—" he began, but I interrupted him ruthlessly.

Forced to Write.

"Read it again," I said, slowly, "and—notice the spelling."

He gave me an attentive glance, then obeyed my injunction. When he had finished he looked up and nodded.

"I see your point," he said. "She was coerced into writing the letter, and she's managed to put some kind of message into it to Mary. But why Mary, of all people. Why not her mother or old Harry, or you?"

"I've been racking my brain to answer that question," I told him, "ever since I first saw the letter. I knew she never would have written it of her own free will, that it was either forged or something coerced."

"You had more faith in her than I did," Dicky said remorsefully.

"I know her better," I told him in matter-of-fact fashion. "If you've finished with it give it back to me before we talk any further. Then I won't be afraid of anybody seeing it."

"I'll bet you have it memorized, already," my husband said, handing the letter to me. I tucked it away in my bag before I replied.

"If ever a letter needed memorizing to the last syllable and comma, that one does," I said.

"Amen," my husband agreed. "Now, to go back to our little sheeplets. Did you evolve an answer about Mary from the little brain cells?"

"Yes, I did," I told him, and paused, marshaling the memories that had come to me.

"Well! don't be stingy!" he admonished me impatiently.

"I'm not," I returned. "I'm just remembering something from Marion's childhood. Do you remember when Mary and her brothers first came to us, how Marion used to tag Mary around, with all the worship a little girl has for one a few years older?"

"Yes, vaguely," Dicky replied. "Not much"

"Mary was mighty nice to Marion," I went on, "and I remember they had all sorts of games, wigwagging messages, and things like that. I'm wondering if they didn't have a code of some kind, and if Marion isn't using it."

Dicky struck one fist excitedly into the palm of the other hand.

"By the Lord Harry! I think you've got something there," he said. "Now the next thing is to contact Mary without letting anybody here in on it. But I can see by the cut of your jib that you already have a plan."

"Yes, I have." I said demurely.

"Then out with it before I choke it out of you," my husband said with a grin.

"If you think best," I said, "I want to take the first train I can to New York, taking the letter with me. I'll get in touch with Mary at once, and find out if she can shed any light on this."

Lenten Reminder

Blessed is the man that walketh not in the counsel of the ungodly, nor standeth in the way of sinners, nor sitteth in the seat of the scornful. But his delight is in the law of the Lord; and in His law doth he meditate day and night.—Psalm 1:1, 2.

Emphasis On Child As Person

Having visited in many rural and city schools in about a third of the states of the nation during the past five years, I am impressed with the growing emphasis on the child as a person. One observes it in educational speeches and articles. One sees it in the classroom. One senses it in the attitude and remarks of school principals, supervisors and superintendents, as one talks with them or visits schools with them.

Whereas the school official used to talk only about curriculum, methods and administrative machinery, he now tends to talk about school children, how to understand them better, how, moreover, to win the co-operation of the home to this end.

To select one sample, there is Dr. John E. Bryan, superintendent of the County Schools of Jefferson County, Alabama. He heads the schools of the towns, villages and more remote areas surrounding Birmingham, and has been a state and national leader in education.

I met Dr. Bryan and his wife a few summers ago at the University of Alabama. They had come there to participate in the forums I was conducting for the University on Child Guidance, Family Life and Home-School Relationships. Dr. Bryan told me some things about his work.

I soon discovered, as we chatted leisurely in the shade one hot afternoon, that he and Mrs. Bryan shared with me a wide interpretation of education, that they thought of it as continuous from birth, with most of it happening outside of school, especially at home. He, Mrs. Bryan and I talked over the possibilities of more parent education as a part of church programs.

Several months later, Mrs. Myers and I conducted a week of forums and lectures in and about Birmingham. We visited in the Bryan home, met their children and enjoyed the unusually companionable family relationship.

One evening, Dr and Mrs. Bryan drove with me in their car to a meeting of parents, while Mrs. Myers addressed another meeting in the county accompanied by Mrs. Chrales Buis, P. T. A. president of the county.

On the way and at the meeting, all the remarks of Dr. Bryan were centered about the child and his family. I also learned that Dr. Bryan spent several evenings a week meeting groups of parents throughout the county and talking with them about their boys and girls at home and school.

In proportion to the money spent on schools, I doubt if any other county in the United States has beter buildings, equipment or better trained teachers. Putting the child and his parents always first, Dr. Bryan has inspired the patrons of his county to support the schools wholeheartedly.

We parents are encouraged to learn that so many leaders in the schools are discovering the child and his parents and the home as the first and most influential school.

Most states now have laws requiring that mattresses bear tags describing the upholstery materials used Prospective buyers should consult these tags in addition to inspecting the cutout samples.

"The Authority on Authorities"

ESCAPING DANGERS

When a hand is over, and you have made your contract after playing it for all it was worth, don't you get a special sort of kick out of thinking about what the opponents could have done to you in spite of yourself? Perhaps there were two or three chances for them to beat you, but each time they did something else and gave you an opportunity to keep on trying

South had to feel pretty strong to refrain from passing the weak 3-Hearts, but his 3-No trumps constituted the contract he should have chosen if North had made his correct second round bid of 3-Diamonds. This deal was a typical example of the sort of human-interest bridge seen with great frequency in the Grand Bridge club headed by the old billiard champion, Charley Ellis, in Pittsburgh The declarer had to steer a course between many threatening shoals and rocks.

West passed up the correct lead of the club 7 to make perhaps the worst lead in his hand, the heart 4, which the Q won A spade shift here would have beaten the contract, but East chose the club J to the A. The heart 10 scored. Then, to bring in that suit, two entries to dummy were needed. Seeking them, South led the diamond 7. The Q would have cooked this plan, but West played low and the J won. The heart K then went to the A. East tossing a diamond. West returned the club 7 to the 9 and K. The diamond K was now overtaken by the A, for a run of the last two hearts.

East put a second diamond on one of these hearts, but couldn't on the next. He had to hold the 10 to block the dummy's 6-4 and also needed two clubs to guard against South's Q-8 So he tossed the spade 10, though the Q would have beaten the contract. The declarer then led a spade, on which East put the Q, South ducking. West could do no good by overtaking it, so ducked. East now could do nothing but cash his diamond 10, on which South had the acumen to discard his spade K. East then was obliged to lead into the club Q-8, his 5-spot, so those cards took the last two tricks. That gave south game, with four clubs, two diamonds and three hearts, without taking a single trick in the suit he used to open the bidding.

There may be certain treacheries or undercurrents to cope with. Be sagacious.

NEW BOOK AT LIBRARY DEALS WITH FAR EAST

Snow Follows Up 'Red Star Over China' With 'Battle For Asia,' Timely Story.

In 1937, Edgar Snow wrote "Red Star Over China" in which he declared, "Japan cannot win." And now, more than three years later, with China still fighting, and her chance of ultimate victory vastly enhanced, Snow's new book, "The Battle For Asia," is exciting and significant.

The volume has been added to the shelves at the Mansfield Public library, and it gives a clear analysis of Japan's internal situation and the immediate and vital problems confronting England, Russia, the Axis and the United States in the Far East.

Recent Fiction: DELILAH by Marcus Goodrich is the story of a destroyer of the U. S. battle fleet, and that of the men aboard her, during the six months preceding America's declaration of war in April, 1917. Like "Journey's End," this novel concerns the interaction of men's personalities, their friendships and hates when they are thrown together intimately under the pressure of great events.

MOUNTAIN MEADOW by John Buchan is the story of Sir Edward Leithen's last adventure. Warned by his physician that he has but a year to live, he resolves that come what may, he will "die on his feet." At that moment, along comes Blenkiron, his old American comrade of the first World war, with a new quest to be undertaken—Francis Gaillard, a New York banker, has disappeared. It is a chance to die standing, and Leithen takes it; and his adventures, as he follows his man to the frozen north, make a moving and memorable book.

ENEMY SIGHTED by W. J. Holmes is a thrilling story of modern warfare on the high seas. This is the saga of two patrol ships and an enemy raider in the Indian ocean.

Other fiction: SUCH IS THE KINGDOM, by Sugme; PRINCE OF PARADISE, Gerard; BLACK PLUMES. Allingham.

New non-fiction: AMBASSADOR DODD'S DIARY edited by William E. jr., and Martha Dodd is the inside story of the crisis in Europe as seen through the eyes of U. S. ambassador to Berlin Dodd, who saw history being made during the years from 1933 to 1937. It is told with the keenness of straight thinking and the blunt, undiplomatic convictions of an American.

THE REDEMPTION OF DEMOCRACY by Herman Rauschning, author of the Revolution of Nihilism and former leader of the Danzig Free State, is not only an analysis of the present world predicament but, also throws a challenge into the face of England and America, to pool their resources and revitalize their democracy as the only possible strategy for the survival of our way of life.

Frederick C. Chamberlain's dramatic biography ELIZABETH AND LEYCESTER is the first attempt in four hundred years to do justice to the character and achievements of Elizabeth's foremost counsellor and one of the great English statesmen of all time. All the great figures of the period are carefully analyzed but the central figure is always Leycester.

Also on this list: SEVEN KEYS TO BRAZIL by Kelsey; POET'S HANDBOOK, Wood; LIFE FOR LIFE'S SAKE, Aldington; FOREIGN-DEVILS IN THE FLOWERY KINGDOM, Crow; PLANNED ECONOMY, Summers; FIFTH COLUMN IN AMERICA, Lavine; WISDOM FOR WIDOWS, Torrey; GROWING OUT OF BABYHOOD, Sadler; MAGNIFICENT DELUSION, Clark; POPULAR HOME DECORATION, Gilles.

(Available at Mansfield Public Library)

The story of the building of the Erie Canal is a pioneer story with more than the usual adventure. Both of these books for older boys and girls at the Mansfield public library, tell that story in different ways.

LOOK HER THROUGH by Erick Berry—Sabrina Parrott's father operated an inn along the Mohawk trail. There many emigrants stayed on their way to the west. When Gideon came to work on the canal boats he and Sabrina became good friends and worked together in the solution of a siege of horse stealing.

ALONG THE ERIE TOWPATH by Enid Meadow Croft—Stephen and Emeline Davis moved to Albany from New York to escape yellow fever. Their aunt and cousins with whom they made their home in Albany were very poor, but they all worked together ever in the construction of the canal. Besides being an interesting story this book describes how the canal was built. There are many illustrations also which make the book beautiful.

TWO GET FINES

Two drivers of tractor-trailers were fined $20 and costs each yesterday when they pleaded guilty to speeding in a restricted zone before Judge G. E. Kalbfleisch in Municipal court. Stanley Earl Davis of Chicago and Lawrence Welsh of Cambridge were arrested by the state highway patrol for driving 58 miles per hour in a 20-mile an hour zone on Route 42.

BROADWAY

—By Dorothy Kilgallen

(When a Young Man's Fancy Turns to What the Girls Have Been Thinking About All Year.)

* * *

The birds — and the jockeys — are winging their way northward. . . . There's a whirr of roller skates on the sidewalks. . . . Ina Claire's mind is on her Easter bonnet. . . .

Kilgallen.

The Powers models are strolling into the niteries in tropical prints. . . . El Morocco is full of suntans. . . . A fresh breeze gives the autograph hounds a glimpse of Ethel Merman's petticoat as she runs through the stage door on matinee day. There are poises behind the intelligent ears of the sad-faced horses that draw the hacks outside the Plaza. . . . Dance bands are reviving the Rodgers and Hart tune, "Spring is Here, I Here."

* * *

Spring is lovely everywhere, but especially in Manhattan. . . . Spring in Manhattan is more than crocuses blooming and tulips standing in bright stiff rows and small new chartreuse leaves on the trees.

Spring in the city is chalk on the sidewalks where children play after school. Sunlight a blinding flame on the chromium spire of the Chrysler building.

Sunlight in glinting sparks off the waves at the Battery. . . . Red balloons in Central park. . . . Yellow gloves on the Broadway dandies. . . . Smiles from the corner traffic cop. . . . Chorus girls in slacks on 45th St.

Mint juleps on the menu at the Astor bar. . . . Dude ranch posters in the Fifth avenue travel shoppes.

In New York, in the city, spring has a dash and a rush and a rhythm. . . . It comes in with flowered hats on the pretty girls, and it comes in with circus posters and baseball training-camp newsreels and shop windows full of navy blue and white. . . .

In the city, it is more than the green color of grass in a field and the lowing of a cow heard across a meadow in the slow sunset of a first mild day; it is the clashing urban noise of traffic din and street vendor hawking and schoolboys whistling in the afternoon, and the wild red windows of the skyscrapers just before the big sun goes down. . . . There is drama in the city in the spring.

Uptown, the sirens scream on bicycles in Harlem. . . . Downtown, the pretzel-sellers dream on Canal street corners. . . . Midtown, the night club owners inquire about cooling-system prices, and the glassed-in hot dog stands let their windows down, and the bowling alley crowds grow thinner.

There is iced green borscht at the Russian Tea Room, peppermint ice cream at the Barberry Room, fresh strawberries at Twenty One. . . . Showgirls start buying floppy straw hats.

Shops start putting bathing suits in the windows. . . . If you look at feet crossing Park avenue, you see them wearing brick red shoes. . . . If you look at hats going down Fifth, you see that most of them are white.

When it's spring in Manhattan, you know that soon the roto pages will start showing pictures of Katie Hepburn driving a tennis ball across a net. . . . Tommy Manville will think of marrying again. . . . Young Al Vanderbilt will give his pre-Belmont press parties.

The busy aisles of St. Bartholomew's will be crowded with brides. . . . The contrary sports pages will start the baseball season by carrying yarns about spring football practice.

Victor Mature will get his biannual haircut. . . . Business will grow brisker at the Planetarium. . . . Broadway Rose will get out her nose-length veil.

When spring comes to town, Damon Runyon's powder-blue suit comes to Lindy's. . . . The Trout stream runs at Leone's. . . . The showgirls drift to the edges of the hotel swimming pool. . . . On the penthouse terraces, skyscraper gardeners unveil the shrubbery.

Vegetable sellers begin to think of awnings. . . . In the garment center, the workers play punch ball at noon. . . . There is an Eastward swarm of "B" picture actresses from Hollywood who want leads in road shows and chicken-coop dramas.

The warm fogs at night add a halo to every light on Broadway. . . . Sometimes, when you wake early, you hear a hurdy gurdy underneath your window.

* * *

Spring in Manhattan is a time for ice cream cones and lollypops. . . . Steeplechase signs with the man with the pie-slice smile, for pinwheels and bock beer and Sunday drivers and carousels in the park.

HOLLYWOOD

HOLLYWOOD—The stiff shirts are back from the laundry. The stuffed ones once more are complacent. The orchids and gardenias are wilted on the ash heap. Academy night is stowed away in time's mothballs.

ROBBIN COONS

And yet in these parts we still talk about the drama of poetic justice starring Ginger Rogers. The night starred other dramas — gangling Jimmy Stewart's, husky John Ford's, homespun Walter Brennan's and likeable Jane Darwell's—but none so heart-satisfying as Ginger's.

You could almost feel that crowd pulling for Ginger Rogers. Strangely, her victory and "Kitty Foyle's" was in the air long before the secret results were announced from the platform, long before a radiant, tearful girl from the screen stepped up there beside the stately great one from the stage, Lynn Fontanne, to accept her Oscar.

Strangely this was so, because for the first time in the academy's 13 annual Oscar-givings the results were known beforehand to only one man, the auditor of ballots.

Yet you could feel it, and actually it was not strange at all.

The psychology of the voting was all in Ginger's favor, without detracting from the unsuccessful candidates. Bette Davis already had two Oscars; Katharine Hepburn had had hers; Martha Scott was new, from the stage—there would be plenty of time; Joan Fontaine had had but one outstanding film—for her too there was no rush. But Ginger—she was of, by and for the movies, and she had come from nowhere and been through the mill.

* * *

The arguments may go on and on about the relative merits of Ginger's "Kitty Foyle" and Martha Scott's "Our Town" and the others—but on the matter of the mass emotional satisfaction involved in a victory of one candidate over the others, it was in the cards for Ginger.

It wasn't only "Kitty Fowle" that Hollywood acclaimed.

PLAN EXTENSION OF FOOD STAMP SYSTEM IN OHIO

Surplus Marketing Officials Survey 23 Additional Counties In State.

(By Associated Press)

CLEVELAND—Surveys designed to bring the orange and blue food stamps of the surplus marketing administration to at least 23 additional counties in Ohio are progressing rapidly, officials of the SMA disclosed today.

L. B. Von Spach, administrator of the food stamp plan in Cuyahoga county, said surveys are under way in eight northeastern Ohio counties, where adoption of the plan would increase the food purchasing power of low income groups by about $1,650,000 annually.

SMA's Cincinnati office is conducting surveys in Darke, Peble, Butler, Montgomery, Warren, Clinton and Clermont counties, and the Toledo office in Williams, Defiance, Fulton, Henry, Wood, Ottawa, and Sandusky counties. Another is being conducted in Franklin county, and the Cleveland office probably will extend its activities beyond the eight counties.

Stamps already are in use in Cincinnati and Hamilton county, Marietta and Washington county, as well as Cleveland and Cuyahoga county. In Dayton, Toledo, Akron, Barberton and Cuyahoga Falls, the plan does not apply beyond the city limits.

Under the system, public assistance agencies provide clients with orange stamps which may be used to purchase all foods at any eligible retail store, plus blue stamps equal to 50 per cent of the value of the orange stamps. The blue stamps may be used at any eligible store, but are limited to the purchase of certain foods designated as surplus.

Von Spach estimated that through the issuance of blue stamps, the annual food purchasing power of low-income groups would be increased $300,000 in Trumbull county and $200,000 in Stark.

In each case, county commissioners must assume responsibility for a revolving fund used by public assistance agencies in purchasing orange stamps from the treasury.

PLAN SCHOOL LANDSCAPING

Architects Get Plans Ready For Improvements at Two Junior Highs.

Plans are under way to landscape the grounds at the new John Simpson and Johnny Appleseed Junior high schools this spring along with a number of other improvements at buildings in the city, according to J. B. Moke, superintendent of buildings.

The landscaping, final step in completing the new building projects, will be handled by the regular maintenance staff at the schools, Moke said. Plans for the landscaping are being prepared by Architects Althouse and Jones and Vernon Redding and Associates.

Moke said a new basement shop room in the John Simpson building has been furnished and rented to the federal government for civilian aeronautics classes which formerly were conducted at Senior high school.

J. R. Harrington, instructor in charge of the classes, requested the new quarters so there will be space for a partly dismantled plane.

Other improvements already completed include finishing of the Mothers' club rooms at the Hedges and Prospect schools, redecorating of basement rooms for the girls' vocational department at Bushnell school, and refinishing of classroom furniture at the Brinkerhoff, Western avenue, Hedges and Bowman schools.

COLUMBUS—(INS)— Charles E. Wheland, former Uhrichsville banker who confessed the embezzlement of $475,000 from the defunct Union Bank, today was turned down for the second time on his application for parole.

CIVIC MUSIC DRIVE ON WAY TO EARLY SUCCESS, CHAIRMAN SAYS

Running far ahead of previous years, the Civic Music association campaign was well on its way toward success today, Mrs. Paul F. Cropper, general chairman, announced today.

As of today, the campaign has produced more memberships than any of the four preceding campaigns, with every indication that the conclusion of the drive tomorrow night will see the largest membership in the history of the undertaking, she said.

Mrs. Cropper issued a warning to present members who have failed to renew their memberships, however.

"Naturally we want to retain our present membership intact," she said, "but we cannot afford to jeopardize the concert series by waiting until Saturday to know definitely the number of members who expect to continue their memberships. Consequently new members are being accepted at headquarters at the Ohio Fuel Gas company in the order in which they are received. If by any chance some of our present members have neglected to pay their dues, they are urgently requested to get their money to headquarters yet today. The office will remain open through the dinner hour and up until 9 p. m. The membership drive definitely closes Saturday night at 9 unless the capacity of the auditorium is filled before that time."

Meanwhile, a check today revealed that a large number of members favored a symphony orchestra as one of the attractions of the new season. Members ballot on their preferences as they subscribe. Mrs. Cropper explained, and the ballots will be tabulated and considered by the talent committee, which will meet to select a program after the membership campaign closes Saturday night.

Mrs. Mercedes Walker, Civic Music representative from New York, today gave campaign officials a list of attractions that will be available to Mansfield for the coming season. In the list were the following:

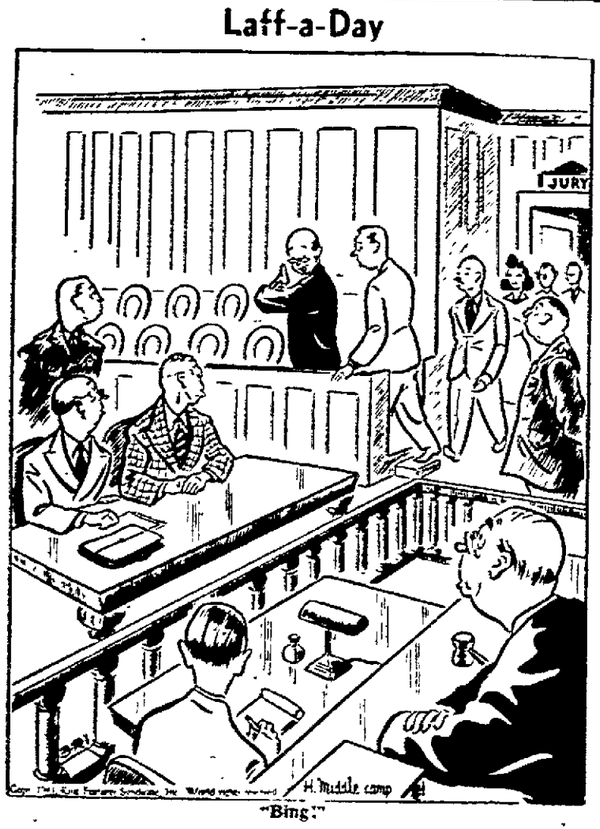
Laff-a-Day



"Bing."

"Mitzi," successor to "Skippy" as the county jail's mascot, already bids fair to attain "Skippy's" popularity with deputy sheriffs and jail visitors. "Mitzi's" maners are probably better than "Skippy's" too for she doesn't jump up on the sheriff's desk to take her naps and to look out the window. "Mitzi," a little Boston bull, moved into the sheriff's residence at the jail with Deputy Sheriff John Whitcomb and Mrs. Whitcomb. "Skippy" left with former Sheriff E. P. Long when he and Mrs. Long moved into their own residence.

HALF MILLION ARE SOUGHT BY U.S. TREASURY

Campaign Workers Enrolled Today For Campaign To Raise Billions.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON— The treasury today began enrolling an army of 500,000 persons to assist in a campaign to sell billions of dollars worth of the new defense savings securities to the American public.

Gale F. Johnston, St. Louis insurance men who will supervise the drive, said the campaign workers would be sent out to ask employers to use the securities for employe savings plans; to canvass the schools; to urge labor union cooperation; to arrange with banks so depositors can have the bonds bought for them regularly and charged to their accounts, and to organize other promotional activities.

Governors, mayors and other prominent local officials will be asked to name committees in even the smallest communities.

Johnston explained the theme of the drive would be for continuous purchases rather than large lump transactions.

For example, he said, the idea would be to encourage a school child in the habit of buying one 10-cent savings stamp a week or month, rather than to have the child buy $5 worth at one time, and then forget about the matter.

The new securities, announced last night by Secretary Morgenthau, were graded in denominations all the way from 10 cents to $10,000.

Here are the investment wares they will place on the market May 1:

Postal savings stamp—10, 25 and 50 cents, and $1 and $5 units. Bear no interest. Redeemable in cash anytime or exchangable for defense savings bonds.

Defense savings bonds—Almost identical with existing "baby" bonds, which they will replace May 1. In denominations of $25, $50, $100, $500, $1,000. Purchase limited to individuals.

Series F and Series G bonds—each series in denominations of $100, $500, $1,000, $5,000 and $10,000. Sold to corporations as well as individuals.

While the defense savings bonds may be cashed at any time after purchase, the Series F and G bonds cannot be cashed until held six months, and the treasury reserves the right to require 30 days notice. In all three cases, the sale value of the bond accelerates as it approaches maturity.

Officials explained that the securities were designed so as to discourage purchasers from liquidating them before maturity because they wanted to emphasize the idea of permanent savings and because the treasury would need the money.

Red Birds, Ashland Defeated In State Cage Tourney

Sport Podge by REX HESS

The little fellow is only three days old but he's still hitting a clipping a day clip. I mean that young son of the Coach Paul Snyder's.

That shouldn't be too much of a record for a rising young fullback, and though it may irk those readers who don't happen to know the Snyders, this is a story that must be told.

On his first day in this vale of this and that, the youngster sponsored an athletic contest at the high school gym that has never been duplicated.

Coach Snyder realized, even in his dazed condition, that the cigars he had been passing out to his friends were hardly the thing for his football squad, so he sent 25 ice cream bars to the gridders for their morning gym session.

But the gridders had been around long enough not to expect their mentor present on the day of such a momentous event, and only five showed up for the class.

And I have it on the word of one of the contestants, that those five gridders ate every one of those 25 ice cream bars.

Fremont Green Sox of the Ohio State league can now start looking in earnest for a new manager.

They had been hoping that Chappie Geygan, the old Boston Red Sox, would return to the game as pilot of the Green Hose, but Chappie now has a business of his own and he's just given the final word that business and pleasure won't mix.

This is the first full day of spring, but I haven't a thing to say about spring. I'm a fair-weather fan, and this thing called spring hasn't impressed me by its pre-season training performances.

It'll be no path of roses, that cinder track at Stadium field when the Mansfield Relays sprinters go into action April 19.

It'll be TOBASCO ROAD, on the word of Relays Manager Harry Mehock. So hot those sprinters' hoofs will be.

Feller Battles Control Problem

FORT MYERS, Fla.—(AP)—Bob Feller isn't doing so well these days, but no one in the Cleveland Indians' camp seems to be worried.

A good deal of his trouble so far has been with his old nemesis—wildness. The St. Louis Cardinals scored two runs on two walks and a pair of hits off Feller to beat the Indians yesterday, 2 to 1. It was Bob's third defeat of the spring, his offerings previously having been pounded by the Brooklyn Dodgers and Philadelphia Phillies.

Clint Brown and Mike Naymick were the other Cleveland pitchers, the former allowing two hits in three innings and Naymick one in two. The Cards got to Feller for four hits in his three-inning turn.

The Tribesmen tangle with Louisville today with Cal Dorsett and Joe Heving the pitching nominees.

JIMMY'S HAPPY

HOLLYWOOD —(AP)— The Chicago White Sox lost to the Philadelphia Athletics yesterday, but you would never guess it from the smiling countenance of Manager Jimmy Dykes. The reason for his good cheer was a physician's report that John Rigney, his star pitcher, had a perforated right ear drum which probably would exclude him from the army draft.

City Loop Ends 1941 Schedule

Athletic Supplies Meet Sohioans For Title.

TUESDAY night will ring down the curtain on the Mansfield basketball picture for the 1940-41 season as the City league has its final attraction at the high school gym.

The big game of the night will bring together two of the strongest teams in Mansfield, the Mansfield Athletic Supply and the Blue Roose Sohioans. The Blue Goose team is the 1939-40 champs. They won the first round championship this year, but were eliminated in the second round by the Athletics.

The Supplies will be a dangerous contender as is shown by their second round record when they won five ball games without being defeated. They lost two games out of seven in the first round to make their league record 10 victories against two defeats.

The Sohioans on their record of this year retain the role of favorite, due to their high scoring team which is the highest in the entire league. They boast the league's leading scorer in the old perennial favorite Al Stickler, who has been one of the outstanding athletes in the history of Mansfield. He has retained his league scoring leadership from last year when he also was the scoring champ. The Sohioans record for the league season is nine victories against three defeats.

In their two previous meetings this year, the teams have broken even. The Sohioans won the first game by a score of 24 to 18. The second game was won by the Mansfield Athletic Supplies by the score of 26 to 24. This will be the rubber game of the series with the league championship hinging on the outcome of the basketball game this Tuesday night.

The preliminary game will bring together the B'nai B'rith team, which won the Y. M. C. A. league championship and the Rex Billiards, the Friendly House champions. The Rex Billiards are old favorites with Mansfield basketball followers, while the B'nai B'rith team in its first year in the league walked away with the championship against stern competition. An interesting battle should result with both teams boasting high scoring attacks.

Baseball Sees Record Season

Signs Point To Large Attendance Boost.

TAMPA, Fla. —(AP)— Baseball men are keeping their fingers crossed—but the signs appear unmistakable that the coming season will be one of the greatest in history from an attendance standpoint.

* * *

Crowd records are being broken right and left around the Florida exhibition circuit, and in the last half dozen games this observer has attended, grandstand and bleachers have been packed to where the aisles were obstructed. At some of these games the price of grandstand admission was $1 too.

The champion Cincinnati Reds played to more fans in their first two games here than in the entire six they played a year ago, with over 3,000 watching them engage the Yankees. Cleveland and the Giants played before a record throng of 4,300 in Miami, with many turned away, and on another day rival games in Miami and Miami Beach drew 3,500 and 2,800 respectively.

Old-timers who were attending the training camps at the time recall that there was a similar quickening interest in baseball at the time of the first World war. That probably is a partial explanation of the current rush for the turnstiles, but the baseball men prefer to believe that the fans also are intrigued by other factors—the prospect of a couple of close league races and the introduction of such colorful newcomers as Phil Rizzuto and Gerald Priddy of the Yankees.

For four springs previous to this one the Yanks were the only consistent draw on the exhibition circuit, with Cleveland scoring at the box office only on days when Bobby Feller was scheduled to pitch. This year several other clubs will more than pay their training expenses.

SPORTS GOSSIP

NEW YORK — (The Special News Service)—Jack Johnson's feud with Joe Louis and company is red hot. They give old Jack the heave-ho every time he tries to crash a Louis work-out. . . . Our dope is there'll be no hoss track near Camden, N. J. . . . One man's opinion: Long Island U. to beat Ohio U. in the cage tourney finals. . . . WE CAN DREAM, CAN'T WE?

Is to break a hand on
Simon's head.

Bout's Length Only Question

Simon and Manager See Hope For Challenger.

DETROIT, Mich. —(AP)— "How long will it last?"

That old, familiar chant was heard today with Joe Louis, carrying on what is described as his "bum of-the-month" campaign, expected to blast the championship aspirations of ponderous Abie Simon tonight.

The battle, set for 20 rounds or less in Olympic arena, is jokingly or otherwise called the 15th defense Louis is making of his world's heavyweight championship since he won it from James J. Braddock in Comiskey Park, Chicago, back in June, 1937.

* * *

The chant started in Boston last December when the Brown Bomber beat Al McCoy so unmercifully he was unable to answer the bell for the sixth round.

As the hour of the bout approached there was no one, with the exception of Simon and his manager Jimmy Johnston, who conceded Ponderous Abe a chance.

Said Manager Johnston: "Abe, himself, told me that he would win, and who am I to call him a liar?"

The consensus was that the 250-pound Simon would not last more than four rounds and might not answer the bell for the second. He will outweigh Louis by 47 pounds, an advantage which may only prolong the agony for the huge, slow-footed Simon. He is the closest approach to Primo Carnera the ring has ever seen, except that he is not rated as good as Carnera, whom Louis knocked out in six rounds in 1935.

Deacon Reveals Secret

'Never Beat Yourself' Says Red Manager.

By GEORGE KIRKSEY

TAMPA, Fla.—(U.P.)—Rule No. 1 in Deacon Bill McKechnie's book of baseball commandments is: "Never beat yourself."

That's the secret of the success of the World Champion Cincinnati Reds. Twice in succession the Reds have climbed the golden stairs on gilt-edge pitching and air-tight defense. In 1941 the Reds will bid to make it three in a row with the same prescription.

* * *

The Reds, as always, are short on power, but they proved in the National League pennant race and the World series last year that great pitching can throttle long-range hitters. The Reds are loaded with pitching.

Mid-March appraisals lead to the belief that the Reds will have a stronger ball club this season than they did in 1940—with only one big "if" tossed into the picture. The big question mark concerns Ernie Lombardi's sprained ankle, which he hurt last September.

For insurance, the Reds rushed into the market and bought 34-year-old Johnny Riddle from the Yank's Kansas City farm. Riddle is a smart receiver but a light hitter. Much repsonsibility will fall upon his shoulders if Lombardi can't catch well over 100 games.

The Reds' pitching and defense is something to write Aunt Hattie about. Picture a "Big Three" of Paul Derringer, Bucky Walters and Gene Thompson, each a potential 20-game winner. No other club can match that trio. Then, in the second line they have Jim Turner, Whitey Moore and Monte Pearson, who just three years ago hurled a no-hit, no-run game for the Yanks, and Joe Beggs, a great relief man who won 12 games and lost only three last season. Battling for the other places on the staff are Johnny Vander Meer of double no-hit, no-run fame; Bob Logan, a left-hander up from Indianapolis where he won 18 games; Witt Guise, another lefty; Big John Hutchings, who is being brought along slowly; and Elmer Riddle, brother of the Reds' new catcher.

The Reds' only other possible question mark is at shortstop. During the winter the Reds traded Billy Myers to the Cubs for Outfielder Jimmy Gleason and Shortstop Bobby Mattick. Eddie Joost, who played 75 games at short last season, is slated to take over Myers' job. Mattick and Pep Young of Pittsburgh will be hanging around "just in case" he falls short of expectations.

Elsewhere in the infield, Frank McCormick will be back at first, Lonnie Frey at second and Bill Werber at third.

* * *

Loudonville Loses to Sons Of Ohio Heroes

Kerekes Kagers Fail to Find Hoop In Time to Make Real Threat.

By REX HESS, News-Journal Sports Editor.

THE STATE high school bucketball tournament goes on, but for teams of the Mansfield area it's all over already.

Loudonville, Ashland and Attica bowed out in first round assignments yesterday, the Red Birds falling before a high-geared quintet from the Ohio Soldiers and Sailors Orphans' Home at Xenia, 32-43, the A's dropping a 33-38 battle to Springfield Township of the Akron district, and Attica, winners of the Bascom B tourney, being eliminated by Hanover 34-46.

Bolstered with confidence by their overtime final victory over Canton St. John's at Kent, Loudonville took a big crowd to the Class B classic at the Ohio State gym yesterday, a big and disappointed crowd.

The Red Birds were way off in their shooting, and puzzled not a little by the type of officiating they got in their battle with the Xenia Home.

Three players went out on personals, Etzwiler, Darling and Swank, while Zenia was forced to rest its star performers to escape a similar fate. Loudonville missed enough free shots to win the game.

The Birds who were left staged a brilliant last-period comeback and with only six minutes left to play were only six points behind. But back into the game came Xenia's stars, and that ball game was over.

Xenia showed the best passwork of any Class B team performing in the Loudonville bracket, even better than the famed Glenford quintet, and without question was the best conditioned team in the tourney.

* * *

The rangy sons of Ohio's soldier dead just about ran the pants off Loudonville's Birds, so well conditioned they were, and many of their points were made on fast breaks after pass interceptions.

Xenia led at the quarter 8-4, at the half 23-10 and at the third period 30-18. Finding the range with uncanny accuracy on long shots, Loudonville spurted to bring the count to 24-30 with six minutes left to go, but Xenia took command again and there was no doubt of the outcome in the waning minutes.

For a time it seemed as though Loudonville might follow the example set by Hicksville and Elmore in preceding games. Trailing all the way, Hicksville tied the score at 33-33, then defeated Spring Valley 38-37 in overtime. And Elmore caught up with Berlin in the closing minutes for a 37-35 victory.

Springfield Township had too much height for Ashland but had to battle for its five-point victory. Pete Risser led the Ashland attack with 12 points, while Harold Fix led Springfield with 11.

In other Class A games Massillon defeated Bryan 44-38, Cincinnati Hughes won from Zanesville 37-24, Lakewood edged Portsmouth 36-35, Canton McKinley staged a last period rally to nose out Middletown 30-28, Martins Ferry staved off a Lima Central rally 33-32, Newark needed a last-half comeback to defeat Youngstown Rayen 44-32, and Xenia Central outpointed Toledo Libbey 47-38.

In the B tournament Cridersville, doped as Glenford's chief opposition, barely edged Fairfield Township 48-46. Midvale outclassed Waterloo 42-37, Canfield won from Marysville 53-46, and Glenford outlasted Smithfield 51-41.

Sharecropper Saga.

Packed with dramatic dynamite and interspersed with plenty of lusty humor, "Tobacco Road," will open Saturday on the Ohio screen. Depicting the tragedy that stems from shiftlessness the story revolves around a group of hard-bitten share-croppers who are about to be evicted from their homes. The play is not lacking from lusty humor however and Director John Ford has retained many of the pungent situations of the original production. "Tobacco Road" achieves perfection in casting as Charley Grapewin plays "Jeeter Lester," and Marjorie Rambeau, the role of 'Sister Bessie." The part of Ellie May is essayed by Gene Tierney while William Tracy plays "Dude Lester." Slim Summerville, Grant Mitchell and Ward Bond are others in the cast.

Camp Life.

Lead-off picture from Hollywood about the funny side of camp life of the selectees in Uncle Sam's fighting forces is "Buck Privates," opening at the Madison Saturday. Bud Abbott and Lou Costello, the serio-comic battlers of radio and stage, the Andrews Sisters, the boogie-woogie girls of rhythm and Nat Pendleton are among the well-known personalities enlivening the film. Exploits of a band of Americans forced to fight off native ruffians in order to protect a fortune in jewels which they have taken from an ancient Egyptian tomb are pictured in "Dark Streets of Cairo," supplementing the bill. Rod LaRocque and Katherine DeMille have the leads.

South Sea Belle.

As a heart-throbbing cafe belle of the South Seas, Marlene Dietrich portrays the kind of a role only she can do so well in "Seven Sinners," showing at the Ritz. Opposite her in the role of a naval officer is John Wayne who does a notable job in the classic fight that climaxes the film. Mischa Auer has a spot in the film as a wandering magician with a failing for picking pockets while Billy Gilbert also injects humor into even the most serious situations. Broderick Crawford, Anna Lee and Oscar Homolka are numbered in the cast. Minna Gombell plays the owner of a freighting line determined to stay in business despite bandits in "Doomed Caravan," the William Boyd co-feature.

Picture Debut.

Amid the familiar settings of the Jot-'Em-Down store which they have made familiar to the imaginations of millions of radio fans, Lum and Abner make their motion picture debut in "Dreaming Out Loud," continuing at the Park. As garrulous old storekeepers of Pine Ridge they help bring a mobile hospital unit to the village and smooth out other complications. Frank Craven plays the town's only physician and others in the cast are Frances Langford, Robert Wilcox, Donald Briggs and Clara Blandick. An old time minstrel show is featured in "Oklahoma Renegades," with "the 3 mesquiteers" Bob Livingston, Raymon Hatton and Duncan Renaldo.

Search For Utopia.

HAT DECOYS BIRD

MEMPHIS, Tenn. —(U.P.)— The woman's hat, object of many a joke, has been used successfully as a decoy for birds. Mrs. W. O. Crump reported that she and a cousin tried without avail to catch a bird that was learning to fly. The job was easy when it noticed an artificial bird on Mrs. Crump's hat. It flew up and perched beside it. She reached up and caught it.

U. S. ARMY HAS DEVELOPED NEW 70-MILE AN HOUR 'SNOWMOBILE'

WASHINGTON— (INS) —The army has developed a new-type "snowmobile," capable of dragging a field gun 70 miles an hour over waist high snow, the war department revealed.

This was disclosed with showing of motion pictures of the training of ski troops at Lake Placid, New York. Officials said some 1,500 men have now been given an intensive week of training in the use of skis and handling of weapons in snow.

The new "snowmobile" used by these troops has caterpiller type wheels and drags a heavy field piece mounted on a sled. Machine guns and smaller weapons are carried by the skiing soldiers.

Learning the use of skis in formation has not been without hardships. it was disclosed. On one trip two men suffered broken legs and had to be brought to camp by dog sleds.

Another Freak Accident.

In another freak accident, a small dog got in front of a line of soldiers on skis. The men tried to dodge the animal, became fouled, and 15 of them piled up. One man struck a tree and broke his leg.

The men are trained in units of about 200 who go up to Lake Placid from Plattsburg, N. Y., each week. The head trainer is Rolph Monsen, former Olympic skier who served with the Norwegian ski troops and who is now an American citizen.

The men start their course with instructions in waxing skiis and caring for their special white clothing. Then they get instructions and actual practice on skis for eight hours a day.

SURGERY SUCCESSFUL

MILFORD, Mass. —(U.P.)— Miss Mildred Gilmore, 37, has undergone 18 operations in a long struggle to regain use of her limbs. She has almost recovered from a childhood attack of paralysis which crippled her right leg.
